HIGHLAND PARK CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Public library building. All are welcome. Christian Science reading room open Wednesday afternoons.

City Council.

The new council held its first meeting Tuesday night, with a goodly number of spectators. Mayor Evans' gavel came down at 8:18, and he at once told the aldermen he wanted to begin work regularly at 8 o'clock sharp, and they will be there. People were on their way home before 10 o'clock. Two or three features were clearly marked. First, the mayor did not deliver from one to three long winded speeches on every item or topic as it came up; he presided and made no speeches. Second, the aldermen made no long speeches, but gave themselves up to business. There was no friction, no petty antagonism, but harmony and an effort to push along the city's business.

Everybody noticed how bright and sweet and clean the council chamber was, for Marshal Rudolph had used a lot of sapolin, perfume and "elbow grease" on the floors, and they almost shone in their new cleanliness.

A letter was read from Dr. Newman asking that the new bridge over the Boyington ravine on St. Johns avenue north might go straight across the ravine and St. Johns avenue extended right straight through to West street and the Fort. And everybody else seems to be of the same mind, so we expect the street and alley committee will so recommend in their report.

The Christian Science society had a much signed petition for use of the assembly room in the library building, and were referred to the library board, who administers that building.

A petition for the repeal of the sidewalk ordinance, passed a week ago over Mayor Cobb's veto, down on Sheridan road south, was referred to the street and alley committee and city attorney.

The bonds of Collector Brand, Auditor Bell, Marshal Rudolph, Street Boss Nevins, Police men Nelson and Cole were all approved.

P. A. Montgomery wanted the council to attend to three things on the Sheridan road work north; the retaining walls at the abutments of the big bridge, the grading of the parkways, so the property owners could finish them up, and third, proper drainage for surplus water on Vine avenue crossing.

The ordinance creating the board of local improvements, namely, Mayor Evans, Frank D. Everett and George W. Roberts, was passed, and a first-class board it is, too.

Some people on the west side empty their sewage into the open gutters along side the new sewers and they were ordered to connect with the sewers at once.

City Clerk Finney reported his estimates for the ensuing year, which were referred to the finance committee.

A new cash book ledger for the treasurer was ordered.

Thomas Morton's bill for work and team in May was ordered paid, $23; ditto as to Chris Hansen's small bill, and Alexander Lang's, left over by the old council.

A set of books for Auditor Bell was ordered, and a petition to have the poison ivy killed, sent to street and alley committee.

Apropos of Mr. McCaffrey's complaint that the Northwestern Ry. Co. were encroaching on the street at Elm place crossing, Chairman Everett and Attorney Smoot reported the C. & N.W. all o. k. so far as they could see.

Alderman Moses thought if Mayor Evans and his two associates on the improvement board would call on the Northwestern officials and tell them what a fine city council we had now, and how much the city was going to do by way of local improvements, perhaps they would hurry up their new fence and beautifying of the grounds by their freight depot.

Chairman Everett said his committee wanted more time to examine that sidewalk up by Mr. Zinn's property, which Mr. Morton built out over the gutter last summer, and it was granted.

The printing committee reported on bids for official printing of ordinances, etc. The committee recommended the awarding of the contract to the SHERIDAN ROAD NEWS-LETTER at 2 cents a line, though its bid was higher than the others. It is a home paper, nearly every family in the city reads it, and it won't "soak" you on prices for job work.

On motion of Mr. Roberts, seconded by Mr. Woodruff, the report of the committee was approved and adopted.

Alderman Warren voted "no" and Mr. Moses was not decided.

Allow the reporter to say that the council and committee did just right. The people of this city pay the bills and they want the official notices published in a paper they read. The days of little petty spites toward the home paper because it dares to tell the truth are happily gone by.
