A GOOD TOWN.

A good town is where their money with their ho chants for everything they tain there; where the citi and encourage everything to the upbuilding of the home merchant helps to p streets whereon you walk, in which your children rec education, the church in worship. His name usu the subscription papers. man who cannot afford to you. When adversity ove he sticks to you through thin: These are only a few why you should patronize merchants. By doing th becomes more lively and prosperous and is more pleasant to live in.

Sheriff Pearson, of Portland, Me., has given the name of "sandpeeps" to the tiny flasks holding two ounces of whisky that are so common in Maine, because they are like the birds. A "sandpeep," when ready for the market, contains what is ratery poor quality, and it retails, bottled in the public streets without dete aid of these little pocket flasks, thus doing away with the use of glass, and insuring less risk of seizure, the source of supply being at a safe distance from the saloon.

Americans, like the Russians, have a fifth season in each year. The period between the autumn rains and the winter frost has a name in Russia which is rendered, "the time when no man can travel." Our fifth season is educational rather than meteorological. It is the graduation season. Then every man travels, in memory, back to diploma days, and each boy and girl journeys in anticipation through coming years which are to be bright and fruitful. The season is once more at hand. May it bring the usual treasures of memory and of hope!

This is the opinion of Prof. Harry T. Peck, of the Bookman, concerning the critics: "The ordinary bo of the present day does not know enough of the subjects he writes about to be quite sure whether he wants to agree with an author or not. Our so-called critics usually have a fuzzy, canton flannel sort of mind, and I don't think the public can very well look to them." Is it not a well look to them? Is it not a well look to them?

A FEW ITEMS.

The following items from the Huckleberry Hedge Howler may prove of interest to our readers: "Bill Johnes broke his pump handle."

"Sam Sooner fed the cows during the absence of Annie."

"We wish to thank the doughner of the doughnuts left on or desk."

"Pete Hanson lost one of his best horses the other day. The sheriff got it."

"Don't judge a man by the clothes he has on. Deacon Jones wears a ragged coat, while that upstart of a Tony Andrews wears a paper collar."

"We expected to have the pleasure of givin' out the death of Squire Thompson in this issue, but we can't do it as the squire hain't quite dead yet."

"Jim Horson got rampageous the other night and popped the question to Lizzie Landers before he had questioned her pop, and now Jim stands up to eat."

"Old Jacob Rathead, who owes us a debt twelve years old, was run away with by one of them stack o' bones he calls horses. He landed on the railroad track all right, but the steam cars had just went by. It's awful hard to get rid of 'bad rubbish.'"

"We was ast by Jennie Swanson to put the following card in on account of her father, who died one day not very long ago:

We want to say much obliged to all who so kindly helped in the death of our dad and otherwise relative of us. Jennie Swanson & Co.
