A HARD LUCK STORY.

Here is a "hard luck" story, says the News-Letter, is born of his parents is of a few days, and full of microbes. He goes to school when a youngster and gets the seat of his pants paddled for something he didn't do until he is six at heart. He grows up like a weed in the back yard, and soon reaches an age when he is composed largely of feet, freckles, and an appetite for pie. About the time he gets so long for short trousers and too short for long ones, he goeth away to college, learneth how to monkey with a three dollar mandolin and play poker. He cometh home a bigger fool than before and marrieth a sweet young thing whose parents are supposed to be wealthy, but whom he subsequently ascertaineth couldn't buy the prize rooster at a county fair. He worryeth along from year to year, gradually acquiring offerings until his house resembles a Sunday school class just before Christmas. He fretteth through the day and lieth awake nights, trying to figure out how to keep himself independent of the poorhouse. His efforts are rewarded by having his daughters run away and get married and bring home a nice son-in-law every few days to feast at his board. His sons grow up and call him governor, and set him back for five-spots every day or so. About the time he has acquired enough good lucre to make it worth while for his heirs to quarrel over, he contracts a cold, and is hurried away before he has time to have a talk with his family. His sons blow up in his estate on bad whisky and plug hats, and his wife puts in the finishing touches to his career by marrying the hired man.—Herald Review.

What would you think of your groceryman if he sold you sugar? What do you think of a druggist who offers you a substitute for the Madison Medicine Co.'s Rocky Mountain Tea. Cg-14

THE COUNTRY BOY.

A country exchange remarks that "the home-grown, hand-spanked, bare-footed, hard-fisted country boy makes a much better fight in the battle of life than the pampered, high-collared, creased-trousered youth of our cities, whose clothes have always been dusted with a whisk broom instead of a shingle. Let the town man out of a job try a year on the farm. Plowing behind a mule will take the kink out of his top-knot, the frog out of his throat, the gas off his stomach, the weakness out of his legs, the corns off his toes, and will give him an appetite, an honest living and a sight of heaven."

WANTED—Cotton rags for washing presses. Will pay 2½ cents per pound. Apply at NEWS-LETTER office.

WHERE WOMEN WOQ THE MEN.

In describing some of the curious customs prevailing among the Hopi Indians, Curator Culin, who visited the Hopis in Arizona last summer for the University of Pennsylvania, said that the women are held in higher esteem than in most Indian tribes, and they, rather than the men do the wooing. When a Hopi maiden decides which of the eligible young men of the tribe she wishes to marry, she goes and sits in his house and grinds corn until he is sufficiently impressed by her industry to marry her. After the ceremony, which is an elaborate one, the couple go to live in the wife's house. If she tires of her husband she can get a divorce by merely throwing his saddle out of the house. After marriage the house, fields, and all their property except the herds belong to the wife. The Hopis are very indulgent parents. The right of the children to do as they please is never questioned. The trip to the Hopis was part of the Wanamaker expedition of 1901, made in the interest of the department of archaeology of the University of Pennsylvania.

Twenty-five per cent discount will be allowed in all subscriptions to the NEWS-LETTER when paid in advance.

PREFERRED THE OLD WAY.

Mrs. Bradbury was instructing the new cook, who was not only new, but as green as her own Emerald Isle. One morning the mistress went into the kitchen and found Kating weeping over a pan of onions.
"Oh, you're having a harder time than you need to have, Katie," said she. "Always peel onions under water."
"Indade, ma'am," said Katie, "I'm the last one to do that, axin, your pardon. Me brother Mick was always divin' and pickin' up stones from the bottom. 'Tis little he couldn't do under wather, if 'twas tyin' his shoes or writin' a letter; but me, I'm that unaisy in it I'd be gettin' me mouth full and drownin' entirely. So if you please, ma'am, I'll pale thim the same old way I've always been accustomed to, and dhry me tears afterwards."
