A MERITED REBUKE

For the time being the public interest in the "gambling bill," as it is called, over on the Milwaukee road, seems to have subsided and a new one arisen, centered on the Strang engagement case, over in Millburn.

The facts seem to be these: Some years ago Mr. and Mrs. John Strang, with no children of their own, adopted a girl who has since been known as Miss Jessie Strang. The family lived just in the outskirts of Millburn on a fine farm, and were thrifty, well-to-do people. Some four or five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Strang died, leaving their home and all their other property to Miss Jessie. Since their death she has spent much of her time in Waukegan attending school and with friends. She is about 20 years of age. Some time ago an intimacy sprang up between her and a certain young man, worthy enough, we suppose, of her hand, and it was supposed they would be married. In the meantime a wifeless young minister came to Millburn as pastor of the Congregational church. As Miss Strang was the organist of the church and Sunday school, she was naturally much in the young minister's society, and a new intimacy was the result, and the reports that they are engaged and soon to be married. Young man No. 1 is dissatisfied and has come from Colorado to secure his expectant bride, only to find that her affections are given to the young and brilliant divine. It is also said that the Millburn people in general and her personal friends are very much pleased with the prospective clerical alliance of Miss Strang. Such are the essential facts, as we understand them. We speak of it for three reasons: First, it is a local, Lake County affair, and has as much interest for us in a certain way as gambling hell, and is a very much more agreeable topic. The ethical bearings of the case belong to all our young people.

Second, our personal knowledge of the case. A dozen years ago, when Miss Strang was a girl in her teens, the Strangs was one of our homes in county Sunday school work, and as Mrs. Strang, a noble woman, told us the girl's history, of their adoption, love for, plans and hopes concerning her we became deeply interested. She seemed to have more than the usual amount of good solid common sense and strength of character, and we have not her career with great satisfaction. Third, to point a moral. What business has the public to make all this fuss over a young lady's engagement? Articles almost by the score in the papers. Special sensational dispatches from Millburn to the Chicago dailies. It is all a piece of gross impertinence. It is none of the public's business. Miss Strang is a very sensible and modest young woman, fully capable of managing this affair. Her personal life-long interests are at stake. All the Strang family friends are sensible, high-toned, level-headed people, and the Millburn community is decidedly above the average. Now let the public mind its own business. Our congratulations to Miss Strang and the young parson.

What would you think of your groceryman if he sold you sand for sugar? What do you think of a druggist who offers you a substitute for the Madison Medicine Co.'s Rocky Mountain Tea. Cg-14

REAL ESTATE.

George Hesler says that George L. Wrenn paid only $150, instead of $450, per acre for his west side addition. All the same, he would not sell for less than we said last week.

Among the transfers recorded so far this week are lots 17 and 18, block 10, from Mrs. Ellen M. Pitts to her son, John A. Genest, for $1,000.

Also Fred Clow, our local architect and contractor, lot 18, block 4, to Lyra Clow (his wife?) for $1. Also John H. Wrenn, the Chicago millionaire banker, lot 17, block 11, to Nicholas Clappitt for $400.

Then Colonel H. P. Davidson, of the Military Academy, has bought and retransferred to his daughter, Miss Alice, lot 2, block 65. The lot has a front on Ravine avenue of 203 feet and 223 on Linden. The old house is being cut down one story and moved upon the west half of the lot; so a new one can be built on the east side.

Let us speak of man as we find him. And censure only what we can see. Remembering that no one can be perfect unless he takes Rocky Mountain Tea. Cg-14
