PHILIPPINE DEBATE IN THE SENATE MARKED BY EXTREME BITTERNESS

Senators Aroused to Anger by Taunts and Personal Encounters for a Time Seem Imminent in and were returning from a funeral. The Chamber-Race Problem a Factor.

Personal Bitterness Displayed.

Not since the discussion of the resolutions leading up to the Hispanotoday. Irritation was aroused on both sides, and once or twice personal encounters between senators seemed imminent.

Teller Raises Storm.

Once when Senator Teller taunted the Republican senators by declaring they knew the statements made in the recent Manila dispatches in which General Wheaton was represented as criticising the opponents of the government's policy in the Philippines were true, half a dozen Republicans were on their feet in an instant.

Lodge Challenges Statement.

Senator Lodge, at whom the taunt seemed to be aimed particularly, hurriedly crossed from his seat to the main aisle, and, white to the lips, passionately challenged the statement of the Colorado senator and demanded that he withdraw it. Senator Teller so modified the statement that further hostilities at that time were averted.

Race Problem Interjected.

One of the sharpest colloquies of the sesston was between Senator Spooner lows: Senate, John . Iryden, Repubof Wisconsin and Senator Tillman of lican, 17: Congress an McDermott, South Carolina. In the course of the colloquy Senator Spooner declared that if the same rule were to be applied to colored people in the Philippines as Senator Tillman referred to in the South, then "God help the colored men in the Philippines."

Sharp Colloquy.

"God help them in the Philippines now," shouted the South Carolina senator, passionately. "You have already butchered in three years three times as many as the Spaniards did in three centuries.'

"It is one thing," retorted Senator Spooner, "to kill men with arms in their hands against the government and against the flag. It is another to

The senators in their excitement seemed for the moment to have forgotten the subject of the debate.
