"If you don't roast that high school management this spring I shall stop my subscription to the NEWS-LETTER." As they stand such a good chance of a prolonged "roasting" in the sweet bye-and-bye, we trust our friend, one of our leading business men, will allow us to be a little easy on them.

Edward M. Laing and wife, who went to Vicksburg last week, for some reason unknown to us were back on our streets Monday morning. Probably he was disgusted with the Mississippi river water, and no filter bed. Perhaps he has come after our old city council to go down there and set one up.

As mentioned elsewhere, Mr. Lindblom won his suit in Waukegan, Thursday. R. W. Coon was his chief attorney and won the case. Mr. Coon is an experienced, capable attorney who has the habit of winning his cases.

Talk about a temperance town, our drinking water for the last three months cost us $3.50, and the city charged us with 19,424 gallons. To be sure we heat the upper floors of our house with hot water, but 19,000 gallons is a whole lot to drink in cold weather.

An agent of the Chicago Fire Appliance company will give an exhibition in Central avenue, just east of the railroad, next Saturday, at 8 p. m., of the much advertised fire extinguisher "Kilfyre." A wooden structure, resembling a room, will be constructed in the street and after being thoroughly saturated with kerosene and coal tar will be fired, and after being allowed to get a good start will be extinguished with a dose of "Kilfyre." Mayor Evans and Fire Chief Bock are much interested in this plan, as they would be pleased to have as many residences and business houses equipped with a good extinguisher as possible. Ex-Fire Chief D. J. Swenie, of Chicago, is president of the company, hence official.

Mrs. W. E. Brand is planning to go to England this spring, taking her children and her mother with her, so as to finish out that visit began a couple of years ago. The ex-postmaster will "eat himself" during her absence, which may extend a year or more.

The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns. The prizes were captured by Mr. and Mrs. Williams, of Winnetka. Miss Robinson, of Kenilworth, received the "booby." The party wound up with a little "hop," and everybody voted a real good time.

A local painter is doing the interior decorations at the late Mrs. Leach's house, now the home of F. H. Babcock. The carpenters made important repairs in the basement, etc., so that when ready for occupancy it will be a fine home.

Wealth may have its advantages, but it also has its disadvantages, as we learned that awful stormy day last Tuesday, when we had to go to the bank, rain or shine. While there, in came Mrs. Bohl, the proprietor of the far-famed Ladies' Bazaar. It was a day for ladies to be at home, but being a business woman she had to attend to her bank matters. It is not all fun, being rich.
