Mr. Hipwell's summer cottage is rapidly assuming shape, but is not quite far enough advanced for the baron to move in his desk and go to work.

President Rounsevelle, of the public school board, is improving and enlarging his house, an evidence that he sees how new official honors add to one's responsibilities.

You may be sure that those who advertise in this paper are honest and will deal with you fairly. Were it not so, how would we dare to put in the Fair Play notice? We could not.

The Hobsonizing of a mayor-elect is an innovation in politics that is out of the ordinary. If the custom should become general it may tend to make the aspirants for that office more numerous in future elections. Highwood is setting a dangerous example.—Lake Forester.

Several fires in the woods about the city have called the fire department out during the past two weeks. Extreme caution should be exercised in the use of fire in the woods, as the carpet of dead leaves is becoming dry and untold damage to the fine residences might follow.

A "rummage" sale, under the auspices of the Highland Park Woman's Club, will be held in the Bayse block, April 23, 24, 25 and 26. The articles to be offered will consist of furniture, carpets, rugs, clothing, crockery, bicycles, baby carriages, etc. Open all day and evenings.

The Chicago papers report the engagement of Grace Y. Chapman to Lieut. Morrill, of Yorkshire, Eng., of the Royal Warwickshire regiment. The family has just returned from a winter in the Bermudas. Also the engagement of Miss Frances Van Schaick to Mr. George O. Clinch, of Chicago, well known here.

Messrs. Bowen W. Shumacher, T. Barbour Brown and Fred P. Luther, the leading nimrods of this city, spent Thursday hunting snipe. Their wanderings extended over the slough west of the golf links to about two miles west of Wheeling, and they bagged 33 birds, 11 each, on which they will feast tonight like expert epicures.

That man is a poor citizen who takes no pride in his town. Water, light, sewerage, good sidewalks and streets, are improvements that every good citizen is in favor of. They cost something, it is true, but they are worth many times their cost to the character and progress they give to the town.

Things are a little dull about town just now, as the elections are all passed and gone, for some time at least. People have had so much to talk about for the past month or more that they are now taking a much needed rest. Occasionally you hear someone explaining how it all happened, but the large majority is saying nothing.

planted a few rows of solari tuberosi Tuesday and when he went out the next day to look over the garden beheld the stalks of the solari were eight to ten inches above the ground, while every tuber was planted full six inches deep. Does not such precocity of growth prove that this is a good climate and soil for "taters?"

The Sheridan Road NEWS-LETTER has been telling some plain truths about the board of education and aldermen of Highland Park. Of course, the paper has been criticized. A newspaper has only to tell the truth about public affairs to "rile 'em up." At the head of the editorial columns of the NEWS-LETTER appears the following original verse: "We will speak out, we will be heard, though all earth's temple's crack. We will not bate a single breath, nor take a single sentence back." That's right, Dorsey, hold the fort.—Barrington Review.

SURE GROWERS.

Garden seeds in packages and bulk; red and white onion sets; for sale by Dale Sweetland.

THE UNEXPECTED HAPPENS.

Events sometimes have far-reaching results not contemplated by the actors therein. Thus the school election was supposed to relate wholly to the choice of a few officials and their influence on the general policy of the school. But the effect of that election may go much farther and really result in a change in the "seat of empire" in this city.

A young business man has lived here since July, and has gone over every foot of ground on the east side looking for a lot, five or ten acres, on which to build a home. Saturday's election came, and his friend, Patton, was defeated. But that was not it. He said, "This election is an eye-opener. The 'seat of empire' is really on the west side. Lucy, there shall be our home, and I shall engage Judge Hibbard to look up a lot for us over there at once." Then he went on to say, "I will cast in my lot and my shekels with the the west side, build my home, spend my money over there, and by and by I may be elected a school director, then president of the board; after that perhaps an alderman; and, may be, crown my public life as the city's mayor from the west side!" And we may say Judge Hibbard is looking for the lot.

Perhaps it was to last Saturday's school election that the poet's prophetic vision had in mind when that immortal line was written: Westward the course of empire takes its way.

Justice Weiss discharged Treasurer Edward A. Welch, of Highwood, whose trial for illegal voting at the Deerfield town election took place last week. The case was an important one, as it in a way establishes a precedent for a dozen or more similar cases which are expected to be brought.
