GREAT BEAUTIES.

Many Handsome Faces Are Found Among the Women of Cashmere, India.

Many of the women of India, and especially those of Cashmere, are beautiful. In a typical Hindu beauty the skin is just dark enough to give a rich, soft appearance to the complexion, says a London journal. The features are regular, the eyes mild and black and shaded by long silken lashes, the hands and feet are small and well formed, the demeanor is modest, the manner is gentle, the voice low and sweet. There are fine-looking women among the middle class Hindus, as well as among the upper ten, and even among the lower class the faces are often very pleasing. Many a Hindu woman who has, perhaps, little pretensions to beauty of face, has, nevertheless, the step and carriage of a princess, and if one is not too fastidious about perfection of eyes and mouth and nose her figure as she walks down the street with her load on her head is truly a beautiful sight.

File Off Alligator's Teeth.

A remarkable operation was performed by a dozen keepers on a 13-foot alligator which is kept in the Bronx zoo at New York. The alligator, which is a powerful animal, showed signs of fierceness for some time. He wound up one morning by killing an eight-foot companion in the same tank. Then it was decided that the big one's teeth should be cut. A rope with a sling was lowered over his head and drawn taut; the tail was similarly treated. Each one of the legs was next secured in a like manner. By patience and repeated trials a lasso was got into the ponderous jaw. The alligator gave a bite and the rope parted like thread. Then a wire rope was secured. This was finally got into place.

Sticks were pried between the jaws to keep them from clashing together. Thus held, the reptile lay helpless and longest and most dangerous teeth was soon accomplished.

One of the most notable library symptoms is the tremendous increase of interest in spiritual and theological problems, said a prominent librarian recently to a writer in the New York Sun. It is astonishing to see how many men and women are reading eagerly everything dealing with questions of life and immortality. We have a great many elderly readers who are absorbed in such literature. I suppose modern thought has upset their early beliefs, and they are struggling to readjust their theories and doctrines in the little time that is left to them. Psychology and all forms of occultism have a grip upon the public interest now, and sociological works find 20 times the number of readers they had even ten years ago. It interests me to see how many young men are delving in sociology and economics, a large proportion of them being from the working classes.

"Twenty-six deer at one shot" sounds a little like the beginning of one of those yarns which are told in the country grocery store. Nevertheless, this is given as a fact, nor did the Vermont man who made the remarkable record violate any game law. The "shot" was a "snap shot," and he fired it from a camera instead of from a gun.

A GREAT RAILWAY.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway owns and operates over 6,600 miles of thoroughly equipped road in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota, Missouri and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

It owns and operates all equipment in service on its lines, including sleeping cars, parlor cars and dining cars, maintaining an excellence of service unequalled on any railway in the world.

It has been a pioneer in the northwest and west in the use of the block system in the operation of its trains, in the lighting of trains by electricity, heating by steam and many other progressive methods, which have added safety, comfort and luxury to travel. It is always the leader in that direction.

The Pioneer limited trains between Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis have the costliest and handsomest sleeping cars in the world and the best dining-car service.
