ACADEMY NOTES.

Capt. Reddick and family will spend the summer at Winona Lake, Ind.

Mr. Guyton visits his Indiana home, after which he takes charge of the Winona Lake band, at Winona

The Target, published by the senior class, is just out, and the boys feel proud of it. Mr. Brand's various photographs of the cadet demonstrates his ability to fill large orders in good style.

The faculty of the Academy have scattered to their several homes. Capt. Trask closes his eight years' connection with the institution; and will go into engineering work, probably in Minnesota. Prof. A. C. Nute and family, and Prof. E. E. Lanton, left Thursday morning for the commencement at Rochester, N. Y.

ROYAL ARCANUM ANNIVERSARY.

Highland Park Council No. 1066, will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the order Monday evening, June 23, by giving a reception to its members and invited friends at Goldberg's opera house.

This council never does things by halves and will sustain its reputation by furnishing a program consisting of orchestra music and recitations.

Mrs. Frank B. Green will recite dialect and other pieces.

Refreshments will be served and a genuine evening of pleasure awaits those who will have the opportunity and can be present.

THE MORAINE.

The annex to the Moraine has been completed and the first family to occupy rooms in the new building is that of William Vincent Jones, of St. Louis, who have taken three rooms for the season and moved in on Thursday.

The coach between the Moraine and the Auditorium makes its regular trips on schedule time regardless of the weather, two or three trips having been made recently through pelting rainstorms. The gentlemen back of the enterprise are, however, imbued with a true coaching spirit, and while they cannot guarantee the weather they do guarantee that the run will be made if it is within human power.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Chatfield-Taylor entertained a large coaching party at dinner in the Norfolk room at the Moraine last Monday evening.

Howard Gillette, who was at the brake on Wednesday, afterward entertained his friends in the same room.

Franklin MacVeagh has secured the coach for a party of his friends for this (Friday) evening.

The management at the Mochine, which is now in successful operation and is considered a great acquisition as it not only turns out great quantities of dishes thoroughly cleaned, but saves the chipping, which is so serious a matter in a large establishment.

The new ping pong table at the Moraine is already taxed to its utmost limit during the day and evening, and the management is considering the purchase of more tables.

The Chicago & Milwaukee Electric Railway have strung a double trolley wire over most of their line. The extra wire is for the purpose of making better time, and shows that the company is looking after the betterment of its service and the welfare of the patrons, a fact which has made the line so popular. The Lake Bluff branch to Libertyville is well under way and a double track will be laid north of Highland Park to connect with the double tracks on the branch.

HIGH SCHOOL ELECTION.

The proposition of the High School Board of Education to purchase land north of and adjoining the present high school property, for the purpose of an athletic field, was defeated at the polls last Saturday by a majority of 80, the vote standing 265 to 185.

There have not been so many farmers in Highland Park in one afternoon in many a year, and they

the project; and with the aid of the short-sighted and unprogressive citizens of the Park they won the day.

How any Highland Parker with any foresight or a particle of progressive spirit in him could vote against such a proposition passes comprehension. They certainly could not and did not vote against it on account of the burden of taxation it would bring, for the individual cost spread over twelve years would be a very small item per capita. For the next two years the cost to this city would have been about $175 per annum, and for the ten years following an average of about $450 per annum. A taxpayer whose total taxes amount to $100 per annum would have had to pay about 38 cents per annum for the next two years, and about $1.14 per annum for the succeeding ten years. But this latter amount would be reduced each year by the increased values of property in the city, through new buildings and increased population.

With these figures before us it seems strange that any Highland Parker should oppose such a proposition, and when it is further considered that the majority of the opposition in Highland Park came from men who pay very little or no taxes, while those who favored the project comprised not only the largest taxpayers, but also the most liberal and progressive citizens, and were anxious in this way to do some thing that would be for the benefit and enjoyment of the general public, and especially the young men of the town who cannot afford to belong to golf clubs. It is astounding how any non-taxpayer, or any citizen, whether he owns a home here or not, could oppose a project that would cost him nothing, or next to nothing.

One prosperous mechanic voted against it who has a scholar in the school, and whose taxes would have been fourteen cents a year for the next two years and about fifty-seven cents a year thereafter. Another voted against it who had paid more for the whisky inside him than his entire yearly tax would have been.

Carpenters and mechanics voted against it whose taxes would have been but a few cents per annum. Young men, mechanics and laboring men, voted against it, who pay no taxes at all. All such men were blindly voting against their own interests, for nothing tends more to build up a town than good schools, equipped with every modern advantage, and with such schools families are attracted to settle in such communities, and every family coming to Highland Park employs more or less labor, and thus gives employment to all branches of labor in our midst. It is thus more to the mechanic's, artisan's and laboring man's advantage to lend his vote to every progressive project set on foot here, than it is to the advantage of the Chicago business man, who simply lives here, and spends his money, which he makes elsewhere, among the storekeepers and working people of the town.

The property could be bought for an average price of $12 62 per foot, but if not bought now may never be procurable. In fact, Mr. Cushing is desirous of getting part of it for a livery stable for the Moraine Hotel, in which event the school would lose all chance of ever procuring a most desirable field, which it ought to have, while land is cheap, and in order to be on an equal footing with other high schools throughout the country.

If the people were awake to the advantages and necessities of such a field, and had the pride they ought to have in their high school, and in keeping Highland Park in the front rank of all the suburban towns around Chicago, that election would not have been lost.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

FLAG DAY.

Next Saturday, June 14, is Flag-day, and it is commemorative of the installation of the American flag, as it was June 14, 1777, that congress adopted the stars and stripes as the national standard. The American Flag Association, formed in 1807 by committees from veterans, military, patriotic and historical societies in the United States, and also of patriotic citizens, to promote reverence for and prevent the desecration of the flag, requests that the national colors be run up on that day on every public building in the United States. It should be observed in Highland Park by a general display of flags on residences, stores and all public buildings.
