Among the late arrivals who have taken rooms at the Moraine are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Black, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Dunkerson and Miss Cunningham, of Evansville, Ind.; L. T. Dickinson, wife and child, with maid, Miss Cudahy and Miss Clara Cudahy, of Chicago.

The enthusiasm of both players and spectators at the tournament at the Moraine last week, has caused a decided renewal of interest in tennis. To those who wish to have the privilege of playing on a fine turf court, they have only to apply to the office at the Moraine for permission, which will be cheerfully granted, to play on the splendid court where the late tournament was held.

The open tennis tournament recently held on the Moraine courts has stimulated a new interest in the game. The finals in the men's doubles, which were played on Saturday afternoon, attracted a large, fashionable gathering from Highland Park and adjoining towns on the North Shore, and proved a very brilliant affair. Messrs. Winchester Carver and Frank Anderson finally defeated J. R. Jones and Turnley Lightner after a spirited match game. Mr. Lightner and Miss Greeley, of Winnetka, defeated their opponents in the mixed doubles; and J. Russell Jones distinguished himself in the men's singles. Mr. Cushing invited the winners of the tournament and their friends to dine with him Saturday evening, and a merry party of twelve young people sat down to dinner at the host's table. Owing to unforeseen circumstances the host was represented by his brother, Mr. Lem Cushing, who did the honors in his usual happy style. After the dinner the prizes were awarded to the winners on the stage of the ball room, the presentation speeches being made by David B. Lyman, Jr., himself an old tennis champion. Following the presentation of the prizes the dance was given, and altogether a very happy evening was enjoyed.

There is a pretty girl in an alpine hat.
A sweeter girl in a sailor hat.
But the handsomest girl you'll ever see,
Is the sensible girl who uses Rocky Mountain Tea.

Humors of the Schoolroom.
A fund of humor exists in the exercises handed up to the teachers of composition in private schools, especially in those for girls. Following is a characteristic sentence taken from a composition by a little girl of 11: "You may not think of it, dears, but I was once a little girl like you, though I am now over 20 and have a large family of my own." But perhaps the gem of the collection is the concluding remark of a description of how two little girls were chased by a bull: "I left Madge to her fate and saved myself by leaping over a gate. Needless to say, I never saw Madge again, and ever since I have disliked picnics."

A Touching Eulogy.
The following brief but touching eulogy was recently pronounced by a sergeant over the tomb of a soldier in the cemetery at La Haye: "Comrades, the deceased, a friend of us all, had a clean sheet. He looked after his boots, which rarely required mending, and he always had some money to draw from his pay. Imitate his example, comrades."
