St. Joseph's hospital, Chicago, where he was taken last Saturday.

Tenn., was the guest of Mrs. A. M.
Tipton and daughter during the past week.

Mrs. E. B. Becker has returned from a delightful visit of several weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
W. C. King, in Washington, D. C.

tending the Leland Stanford Uni-man, was his guest for several days preceding the wedding on the village hall, Wednesday evening, October 22. Admission per couple, 50 cents. Good music will be furnished. Come one, come all, and enjoy yourselves.

Rev. M. W. Darling will speak this evening on "Three or Four Things We Ought to Know;" and the following Friday, October 24, Mr. Frank Woodruff, of the Academy of Sciences, will give an interesting talk on "The Birds of Glencoe and the North Shore."

The entertainment at the school house, Friday evening was a decided success. Judging from the character of the entertainment presented and the enthusiastic audience which filled the hall, the series bids fair to become a very popular form of diversion this winter.

In the finals for the President's cup, which were played at Skokie, Friday, George Leslie defeated M. L. Hoyt, 1 up on 30 holes, thus capturing the first trophy; and in the finals for the Directors' cup which were played Saturday, J. M. Dudley defeated F. L.
Hankey 1 up on 27 holes.

The double wedding of Miss Pauline Hankey and Dr. Francis A. Lane, and Miss Olive Hankey and Rev. Clarence H. Branscombe, which was celebrated Wednesday, October 10, while marked by simplicity, was an extremely pretty and charming affair and quite the fashionable event of the season in Glencoe. The marriage ceremony which took place in the Episcopal church, Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock was performed by Bishop Anderson, bishop coadjutor of the diocese. Miss Pauline Hankey was maid of honor to her sister, whose marriage was the first to be celebrated, and Mrs. Branscombe was matron of honor to Miss Pauline; the other bridal attendants were Miss Branscombe, a sister of the groom, and Miss Marjorie Hankey, who acted as bridesmaids, and Frances Hankey and Dorothy Brown, the little flower maidens. Mr. Charles Dupee, of Glencoe, served the Rev. Branscombe as best man, Dr. S. Spencer, of St. Louis, Mo., served Dr. Lane in similar capacity, and the ushers were Messrs. M.

Green and Gordon King, of Chicago. Miss Pauline Hankey wore a beautiful gown of pineapple tissue elaborately trimmed with real lace, and a shower bouquet of bride roses completed the costume.
Miss Olive wore a handsome imported French gown of cream colored silk with rich lace applique trimmings and carried a white ivory prayer book. Full shower veils of tulle were worn by both brides. The color scheme of the wedding throughout was green and white. The bridesmaids wore gowns of white silk, and handsome picture hats; and the little flower were daintily attired in frocks of silk batiste made in quaint Dutch fashion and wore huge Holland hair bows of white satin and carried white carnations. The perfect autumn day seemed to add to the beauty of the service, and we trust was prophetic of the happy new lives begun that day.
The wedding music was rendered by the surprised boy choir which preceded the bridal party to the altar as they entered the church.
Following the choir came the bishop, then the ushers, the groomsmen, the grooms, the flower children, the bridesmaids, and last the brides, on either side of their father, who gave them in marriage. A large reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hankey followed the ceremony at the church.
The altar decorations were white carnations, roses, palms and smilax, and the same decorations were used at the house, except in the diningroom which was in pink and white. The presents, which were legion, were most beautiful, and included a number of generous checks. Mr. and Mrs. Lane and Rev. and Mrs. Branscombe will be at home in Glencoe after November 15.
