WINTER WHEAT PROMISING.

The weather bureau has issued the following statement of crop conditions for November:

The month was marked by exceptionally mild temperature in all districts east of the Rocky mountains, with excessively heavy rains on the north Pacific coast and from the lower Missouri valley to the west gulf coast and more than the average amount over a large portion of the south Atlantic and east gulf states.

The reports generally show that winter wheat was in very promising condition at the close of the month. With ample moisture and exceptionally mild temperature throughout the month the crop made rapid advancement and too rank growth is very generally reported from the central valleys, Oklahoma and Texas. On the north Pacific coast the weather has been very unfavorable for seeding.

Don't forget that the NEWS-LETTER job department is better equipped than ever before to do all kinds of printing, from a lady's calling card to a three-sheet poster.
