A vigorous effort is being made to secure 100x75 ft. of the corner of the Thompson lot, opposite Mr. Hawkins', for the site of the new Carnegie library building. The edifice will not go on the old site, so much is practically sure. If that old lot is good enough that old building is good enough.

James McDonald is at Waukegan on Supervisor business this week. The Chicago Telephone Company are seeking a franchise through the county, but we heard at Waukegan that some of the Supervisors would hold the thing up unless they they could get free phones in their homes. If there are any such men on the board give us their names and we will hold them up. No bribery in Lake county.

Frank P. Hawkins says that the women who secured the $10,000 Carnegie gift should be consulted first and always in the selection of a site for the new library building, and also as to its general style, etc., practical details being left to experts. Highland Park's first mayor always did show a level head in an emergency. His suggestions are pre-eminently orthodox and just.

THE MORAINÉ CONCERT
 The ladies of the Baptist church gave a concert Thursday evening, in the hall of the Moraine, thanks to the great kindness and generosity of the proprietor, Fred W. Cushing.

All the numbers were solos save that of Mrs. Jones and her son, George. Mrs. Green impersonated several Irish women, or a whole train load of her neighbors enroute for Chicago. But the variety ranged through the entire gamut of such an entertainment, and there was nothing but the very best.

The audience, which quite filled the hall, was a cultivated and critical one. But there was no lack of interest or appreciation at any time, and when the last number had been rendered the people seemed reluctant to leave.

Following were the artists: Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Green, Miss Wycoff, Miss Yoe, Miss Sweetland and Mr. Geo. Jones. Each one, in the special parts taken, met the high expectations of the audience.

We trust it will not be thought invidious to say that the one number which seemed to stand out by itself was Mr. Jones' rendering of Goddard's Canzonetta. That a young man of his years should be equal to such a performance seemed wonderful.

The Misses Isabella and Helen Clark, Miss Ogilire and Miss Miller as ushers filled the bill to perfection.

The credit of getting up the concert belongs chiefly to Mrs. J. L. Miller, whose energy seems equal to anything.
