As a result of the most painstaking study by trained nurses and physicians the invention of a sanitary napkin, which meets with approval wherever introduced, has at last been successful. Miss Edith Koch, Nurse, 1105 5th St., Milwaukee, writes: "The sanitary contrivance known as 'Dainty' is all that the inventors claim for it, and every neat woman should be the owner of one. I would not be without mine for $50.00 were I unable to obtain another." The appliance is waterproof, fits snugly, prevents chafing, makes ladies feel at ease and enables them to dress with their expensive wearing apparel at all times regardless of the periods natural to their sex.
