Many people would 'hitch their wagon to a star' if they thought it would save horse-feed.

The sage of Concord says: That one great man in a village always discovers the other great man in the village.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, gave a social at the church parlors Thursday evening. A grand good time is reported.

There will be a dance, Thursday, Dec. 8, at Goldberg's hall, given by the Highland Park Fire Department. Tickets are 50cts. Come and trip the light fantastic with the "fleet of foot," fire laddies.

F. R. Pechin, superintendent of the Northwestern Railroad, was in Waukegan last week locating a place for a brewer's depot. He went from there to Lake Bluff to look over the Northwestern improvements.

The University of the Minnesota football team at Minneapolis, have chosen a colored man, Mr. Fred C. Nelson, as their head trainer. He was a star in the track athletics in baseball and in football. He always held a high scholarship and won first prize in speaking contest. He also has a complete medical education.

Next Monday night, Nov. 23, will occur the fourth lecture of the Raymond illustrated lectures. The subject will be Berlin. It is to be hoped that as many as possible will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear a most eloquent speaker. Mr. Raymond keeps the audience interested from start to finish and his views are very fine.

The Y. Y. C. held their meeting at the residence of H. S. Vail Nov. 14. M. Chas. Warren was present and amused the boys with some of his slight of hand performances.

The club voted thanks to Mr. Levin for his kindness and generosity in presenting the members with a game of indoor baseball. It can be easily seen that the Y. Y. C. is rapidly gaining friends.

Lucy M. Judson, head deaconess at the Lake Bluff orphanage, has brought suit in Lake county circuit court for a mandamus against Lake Bluff school directors to compel them to allow the children of the orphanage to be educated in the public schools. The directors claim these children are non residents and considerable interest awaits the outcome.

Uncle Sam is constantly in receipt of requests from people in all grades of life for mourning stamps for use on black edged stationery, the excuse being that the red stamp is not appropriate on an envelope with a black edge. The rules of the Universal Postal Union are that the lowest value stamp shall be given; that the stamp for domestic use is red and the stamp carrying foreign mail, five cents, shall be blue. The department does not deem it advisable to put a stamp in black and also in red.

A novel method of building a church has certainly shown itself to the Congregationalists of Evanston. They have tabooed the contractor and say, "buy direct from those who sell the supplies." Here is the schedule: Brick and plaster, referred the pastor; foundation, congregation; outside woodwork, choir; painting, decorating, plumbing, electric lights and furnishing, to be distributed equally among the Christian Endeavor, Sunday School, Ladies Aid Society, Girls Missionary Circle Society for the Reclamation of Willmette heathen. The youthful members have decided to haul the sand needed from the lake themselves.

EXMOOR TO MOVE!

The Exmoor Golf club is considering a proposition to move the links to a tract of land embracing 235 acres, known as the birch farm, south of the Highland Park station on the Green Bay division of the Northwestern R'y.

The club now has ninety-three acres north of Highland Park, the property being leased from W. A. Alexander and the Fullerton estate. The lease does not expire until 1906 and the club has an option to continue the club for five years.

Should the deal for the Birch farm be closed, cottages may be erected after the fashion of the Midlothian, Glenview and Onwentsia clubs.

The Chicago American seems greatly interested in this locality.

It says in regard to the eight brides leaving Fort Sheridan Friday:

"Of the eleven lieutenants 'unattached' who were with the regiment not long ago, only three remain unmarried. One of these is Lieutenant Burt W. Phillips.

"In Highland Park is a girl who is left behind because of a broken engagement. She is Miss Alice Hyde Fessenden, who had expected, up to within a day before the hour set for the wedding, to go with the happy couples to Uncle Sam's Oriental possessions a beaming bride herself. But Lieutenant Phillips, whose sudden breaking of the engagement, caused a sensation, is going away alone."

Is not this Fessenden-Phillips incident about exhausted?

SOCIAL HINTS.

(No. Three.)

Do not make the mistake of imagining that you are profound when you are only ineffably tiresome.

What you are as 'a social leader' means only what you are as a next door neighbor or as a last years acquaintance.

So many people's conception of being 'somebody,' is in manifesting all the mental and moral attributes of a thorough 'nobody.'

The reason that shallow people make social claims that are so enormous is because they have so little idea of what social claims really require.

You may talk until doomsday about your 'social position,' but nobody will believe you, so long as you persist in being personally and privately 'a bore.'

While the personal vanity of appearing to be 'very smart' may gratify us for the moment, it can never return to us the real satisfaction of having won a friend by a genuine kindness.

The world is not standing agape to discover what a wonderful creation you are; it is only waiting to see how agreeably you can help it to pass the time with little or no expense to itself.

To succeed socially you must be constantly on the alert to meet the demands of the hour. A little ready wit is so much more effective than a colossal self-esteem concerning a nebulous and altogether unproved personal superiority.

Because the social art is to you an 'unfathomed mystery, unwritten history,' do not fancy that it is this to all men, or that you may make social pretensions with the same confidence that you might pretend to talk Chinese to one who had never heard the language.

When you are convinced that a fishy stare and a stupid strut are the highest forms of culture and refinement, you are displaying the mental calibre of a peacock, and the social greatness of a bantam rooster. What possible value can your opinion of yourself have for those who see you in all your insignificance and make up their own minds concerning your place in the world's panorama?

UNION MEETING

The four young peoples societies of Highland Park, held a union service in the Baptist church last Sunday evening Nov. 15, to discuss the topic, "How May We Abolish the Saloon?"

There was a good attendance, showing that the young people of the Park are alive and interested in this question. Dr. Parkhurst of Evanston, president of the Anti Saloon League, was the speaker of the evening. After a brief song service, conducted by Mr. Chas. Warren, and the reading of the scripture by Mr. Chas. Norrenberg, Dr. Parkhurst introduced his talk by speaking of the laws for the suppression of the saloon, and the importance of enforcing what laws we have before we can hope to get better ones.

He is allowed the importance of keeping ourselves informed concerning the laws in order to act intelligently.

The citizens league in Chicago was formed to protect children from the baneful effects of the saloon.

This league secured the passage of laws prohibiting the sale of liquor to minors or drunkards.

Previous to this law many saloons had "kid-places," or in other words, boys' club rooms, intended to be the first step toward the saloon.

In one case boys' baseball teams were supported and uniformed by two saloonkeepers.

Dr. Parkhurst spoke of the local option laws, and what they are accomplishing.

The boys had their headquarters at the saloon and returned to the saloon after the game and left their suits there. These places have been closed.

After he had finished, Col. Davidson briefly reviewed the situation in Lake county. Licenses are granted outside of cities and incorporated villages by a board consisting of nineteen members, elected from the districts of the county.

This board has so liberally granted licenses that there are nearly a hundred saloons in this county.

The increase of licensed saloons in Lake county has been far in excess of the increase of population.

If the voters of this county were cognizant of these facts, they would certainly remedy the situation.

The question remains, what are we going to do to abolish the saloon.

An Endeavorer.
