

IN MEMORIAM

The death of Miss Grace Gregory, by being thrown from her horse on Wednesday, August 10, was one of the most shocking accidents of recent years in this city. It seems that she with her cousin Miss Mae Sterling left the family summer home, the Ledgermere Club, for a horseback ride to the Onwentsia Club, and the home of Miss Sterling in Lake Forest in company with Blair Larnard and Milton T. Lightner as escorts. The little party were in high spirits and all went well until near the summer home of Vernon Booth on the West road, south of the Onwentsia grounds when Miss Gregory's spirited horse started on a run. In spite of all the young men could do, the horse could not be stopped and Miss Gregory was thrown violently to the ground and her skull fractured. She was carried unconscious into Mr. Booth's house, and Dr. Haven of Lake Forest was called, but she soon expired. Her parents were at Lake Minnetonka, Minn., at the time, and her elder sister was at the Chicago family home 1638 Prairie avenue.

She was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Gregory, the treasurer of the Lyon & Healy Corporation of Chicago, and had just graduated from one of the best schools for young ladies in Providence, R. I., a city famed for its culture, wealth and refinement. Added to her natural gifts and graces of a rare order, were all the discipline and accomplishments which wealth, parental wisdom and affection could provide. Hence, she was widely admired and appreciated, and warmly loved, for she had a disposition and manner of rare winsomeness.

Her mother was a daughter of the late William G. Hibbard, the great hardware merchant of Chicago, and her young daughter seemed to possess the sterling qualities of mind and character of her ancestry.

We stand dumb, and submissive—"Thy will be done," but profoundly perplexed in the presence of such an overwhelming providence as this. The funeral was held at the family home in this city privately, Friday, and the interment was in the family lot in Graceland. The hearts of our people have been touched, as they seldom are by this calamity, but the most we can do is to be silent, and pray for help for this afflicted family in its overwhelming sorrow.

THE EXMOOR FIRE

About 1:30 o'clock Monday morning, August 8, the south wing of the Exmoor Club House was found to be on fire.

Our excellent fire department responded at once and after heroic and persistent work the fire was brought under control, after the south wing, including kitchen, dining room, buffet and lockers, was pretty effectually destroyed.

The fire would have been brought under control much sooner but the firemen were unable to locate the shut-off valve in the water main, which was closed so as to send the water through the meter. The damage would have been nominal except for this.

The loss, at a conservative estimate, was about $10,000, fully covered by insurance. The directors arranged for rebuilding at once, so that the tournament next week will not be interfered with.

The Club's estimate of the efficiency of our fire department may be seen in the $100 check the directors sent the department.

City Attorney Smoot had his shoes, trousers, golf balls etc., consumed, while Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl and his son Carl mourn the loss of golf sundries, and Chandler Egan lost his specially made outfit but his prizes are safe. Many others lost more or less.
