HIS RUINED REPUTATION.

Rankin—"I wouldn't take it so hard, old man."

Fyle (who voted for the losing candidate)—"It isn't the result of the election that worries me. I'm wondering how I am going to square myself with my little girl. She thinks I am the greatest man on earth, and I told her we were going to win."

A BARGAIN HUNTER.

A bright little girl came into a store and asked the price of collars.

"Two for a quarter," said the clerk.

"How much would one cost?"

"Thirteen cents."

She thought for a while, and said:

"Then it would make the other twelve cents. So I guess I'll take that."

GUARDING AGAINST IT.

The two visiting Bostonians were taking their first ride in the New York subway.

One of them was carrying a brown paper parcel.

"What have you there?" asked the other.

"A small codfish," was the reply. "I have heard reports that the air in here is fetid and unwholesome."

A THANKSGIVING JOKE.

The teacher of a country school had read to her class the story of the landing of the Pilgrims, and after she had finished she requested each child to draw, from his or her imagination, a picture of Plymouth Rock.

One little fellow hesitated and at length raised his hand.

"Well, Willie, what is it?" asked the teacher.

"Please, ma'am, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?"

UTILITY AND ORNAMENTATION.

Little Willie—"What is the difference between character and reputation, pa?"

Pa—"Character is a luxury, my son, while reputation is a necessity."

A QUESTION OF ADDITION.

"Have you any children, madam?"

"Yis, soir," she replied. "I have foive of them—two livin', two dead, and one tachin' school in Brooklyn."

HIS STOCK IN TRADE.

Dentist—"I think I'll have to remove the nerve."

Patient—"Don't do that, Doc. I'm an insurance agent."

A DEFINITION.

"No shade, no shine, no fruit, no flowers, no leaves,—November!"

LIMITED AS TO CHOICE.

"Daggers!" yelled her husband. "Swords! Razors! Cutlasses! Carving knives! Hatchets! Cleavers! Axes!"

"What on earth do you mean by that?" demanded Mrs. Vick-Senn, who had been taking him to task for his shortcomings.

"I'm simply trying to get in a word edgewise!" he said.
