I will give you more for your money than any other store in town. Buying and selling for cash enables me to do so. I do not sell goods for less than cost, but I turn them often at a small margin, and ask you to trade with me that I may continue to turn them often, and I will give you the benefit.

MRS. G. BOHL, Proprietor, The Ladies' Bazaar.

Some of the Highland Park people assisted in an entertainment for the soldiers at the Post on Tuesday evening in the amusement hall. On the program was the Orpheus Quartette, composed of Messrs J. J. Brand, O. B. Brand, W. E. Brand, and Mr. Lynn, who sang "The Old Oaken Bucket" in farm costume. Miss Charlotte Brand played a piano solo, Mr. Averill and Miss Sutton repeated their sketch, "A Happy Pair," which they gave at Ravinia Theater some time ago, and a mixed quartette rendered several songs. When these people returned to the Park, the Mystic Workers invoked their services and their part was repeated for the benefit of the members of that lodge.
