Progress of the Naval Station

Mr. Edmund A. Steece, the instrument man at the Naval Training Station, who arrived at that place recently, has just completed a topographical survey of the reservation and the map is being made. The survey is invaluable to the architects and others who are to lay out the buildings and grounds.

Mr. Max Malbouhan, a structural steel draftsman, is at present planning the main steel bridge which is to be constructed over the ravine on the grounds. It is to be a lofty and substantial affair, and will add much to the appearance of the grounds. Several bridges are to be constructed, and all are to be of steel construction, save perhaps one or two minor ones.

With the arrival of the paymaster and the paymaster's clerk, E. E. Artols, a navy pay office has been established at the training school so that it is no longer necessary to refer small requisitions and contracts to Washington, but contracts in certain cases may be arranged at the local point.—Waukegan Gazette.

C. & N. W. Buys Land

There is much speculation rife as to the meaning of the move which the Northwestern Railroad recently made in purchasing seven acres of land immediately adjoining the naval training station site at North Chicago.

The piece of land purchased lies just north of the government reservation and adjoins on another side the main tracks of the Northwestern road. The side track which is to run into the government property will run through this tract.

The solution advanced is that the railroad will find it necessary to build huge yards there in order to care for the immense amount of business which the construction of $3,000,000 of buildings will bring. It is pointed out that the material for these buildings will create a freight for a time at least which will almost equal that of the whole city of Waukegan combined.—Waukegan Gazette.

"DO IT TO-DAY!"

"And to think that ten months ago I looked like this! I owe it to German Syrup."

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it to-day!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TO-DAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.
