Entertainment At The Post

The first evening in the series of Christmas trees and entertainments at Fort Sheridan was the play "A Search for Santa Claus," direction of Dr. Griffin, participated in by the officer's children, for the benefit of the soldier's children, $35.00 was obtained. The play was well staged and performed.

Saturday night, Dec. 23rd, a Christmas tree was arranged for the soldier's children and presents given out. The officers subscribed toward the expense.

Sunday evening the tree was redecorated for the sick men in the hospital.

Monday evening the Boswell Manufacturing Company, stereoptican and moving picture machine builders, gave an excellent moving picture entertainment in the Mess Hall, free of all cost, for the soldiers. Nearly 600 soldiers attended, also many of the Post people.

Tuesday evening the prisoners gave an entertainment in the Mess Hall of the Guard House and at its conclusion the Christmas tree event occurred, each prisoner was remembered in some way by Santa Claus. Rev. Rogers sent cards for all.

With England and France have been having their telephone troubles. The former has been trying municipal ownership, the latter government ownership, both with great regret. After a great deal of agitation the English Parliament authorized the establishment of municipal telephone system. After six years only five of the plants survive the experiment and these are in such pitiable condition that John Burns, the great labor leader, moved to have the government take them off the hands of the cities. He saw that the municipal ownership of telephones was doomed to failure and the House of Commons agreed with him.

In France things are as bad. Travellers just returning from Europe say they note conditions in Paris particularly. Government ownership has resulted in such service as neither New York nor Chicago would tolerate a single day.

"DO IT TO-DAY!"

"And to think that ten months ago I looked like this! I owe it to German Syrup."

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it to-day!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TO-DAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.
