

Gleanings—Wise and Otherwise

Poet: "How can a man tell when he really is in love?"

Cynic: "He can't tell until it's too late."

Church—"I had a very strange dream last night—I dreamed I was in Philadelphia."

Gotham—"I don't see anything strange about that. You were asleep; weren't you?"

A fly and a flea in a flue
Were imprisoned, so what could they do?

Said the fly: "Let us flee."

Said the flea: "Let us fly."

So they flew through a flaw in the flue.

Willis: "Why don't you buy an automobile, Wallace? You're missing lots of fun. It's folly to say you can't afford to buy one." Wallace: "Oh, I can afford to buy one all right, but I am too poor to run over people."

Little Thoms (who has been nearly drowned): "It was simply marvellous! As I sank for the third time all the incidents of my past life came vividly before me." Dobbs (brutally): "I say, old chap, did you remember that fiver I lent you last year?"

"How long is it going to take to get through this case?" asked the man who was under remand for housebreaking. "Well," replied the young lawyer, thoughtfully, "it'll take me about two weeks to get through with it, but I'm afraid it's going to take you about five years."

Last summer a German went to England to spend a holiday with a country gentleman. At the small village station he was met by a young groom, of whom he enquired: "Are you from Captain Brown's?" "Yes," sir," was the reply. "I've bought the dogcart for you." "Vat!" exclaimed the German. "You think me a dog! You wish me to ride in ze dog cart! Nevaire."

"So you quarreled with George?" said one young woman. "Yes, answered the other, with much pathos. "Is your engagement broken off?" "Oh, no, I told him I never wanted to see his face again, and he said that he would leave me forever. But we didn't go so far as to break off our engagement."

A gentleman dining at a hotel, where the servants were very few, dispatched a lad for a cut of beef. After some time had elapsed the lad returned, and was asked by the faint and hungry gentlemen: "Are you the lad who took away my plate for this beef?" "Bless me," resumed the hungry wit, "how you have grown!"

"I'll give one of you boys a sixpence to carry my bag to the station," said a cross-eyed man, pausing before three ragged little fellows. "Which one, mister?" piped the boy in chorus. "You," said the cross-eyed man. "Which one?" "You!" There was a pause. Finally one little fellow said: "Say mister, close one eye an' look at the kid you want, will you?"
