NORTH SHORE NOTES

Dr. Hollister, school inspector for the University of Illinois, on his recent visit expressed his surprise at the growth of the school in pupils, teachers and equipment.

Dr. Alice P. Nesbit conducted the physical and medical examination of the girls who take the physical training work. Of those who took the work last year six of the ten cases of heart lesions and ten of the eleven curved spines are reported greatly improved and other results in proportion.

Mr. Schwarm took the degree of Bachelor of Arts at the University of Chicago this summer. He received honorable mention for excellence in work in the senior colleges and also in the German department. Mr. Powell spent part of his vacation in Washington studying the state papers of Thomas Jefferson. Mr. G. A. Harper spent his vacation studying in the University of Chicago. Mr. J. R. Harper studied at Northwestern. Mr. Templin had charge of one of the correspondence departments of Montgomery Ward & Co. Mr. Walker was the soloist and principal cornetist of the First Cavalry band that attended the state encampment of militia at Springfield this summer. Mr. Albertson is attending an early class in Northwestern University this year. Miss Barry is now attending medical school in Chicago. Mr. King, our former efficient engineer, is now located in Portland, Oregon, in the construction business; Mr. John Herres of Wilmette succeeds him.

It is not commonly known that the boys voted football out. Worthy substitutes have been found in indoor ball, outdoor baseball, basket ball and track work. Four captains head four groups competing for the trophy, a shield. Watch fobs will be given for winning the greatest number of points. Friday inaugurated the basket ball season, when both boys and girls teams alternated halves. A great deal of enthusiasm is shown in all lines of sport.

An exhibit of the well known Horace K. Turner's art pictures was held Oct. 16 to 19. Proceeds go for more pictures.

The University of Wisconsin by way of advertisement, has placed a bird's eye view picture in one of the halls.

The presidents of telegraph and telephone companies are supposedly in ignorance of the damage done by their workmen in trimming trees to a lopsided condition. Next time the disfiguring process begins just threaten the workman and you will be supported by the officers of the company. Soon, however, as the artistic sense develops, poles and cross bars will exist as memories and photographs.

The annual meeting of the League of Cook County clubs is today, Oct. 26, at the West End Woman's Club, 132 Ashland boulevard, corner Monroe street.

President McCormick says that boats will not enter the Sanitary Canal. A dam will be constructed at the mouth and the water raised three feet. The modern electric pumping plant will be so built (possibly below the ground) as not to disfigure the landscape.

Street lines should curve. Street improvements should be in colors. Thus the eyes are rested and the artistic sense cultivated.

Conduits will win over telegraph poles for many reasons.

Curbstones are engineering errors according to Mr. Dwight Perkins. Riverside, Kenilworth and Lake Forest have not found them necessary. Expense is avoided by building shallow gutters, whose glittering whiteness is not permitted to hurt the eyes.

Mr. Dwight Perkins, architect, addressed the Woman's Club of Evanston on civic improvements Tuesday night. The instructors of the city were guests of the club. The talk was interspersed with lantern views.

The Bureau of Education has found out that in high schools the study of sciences is declining, including physiology, physics, physiography, astronomy and geology. Seven per cent of the pupils are studying chemistry, one-third as many study geometry as algebra, rhetoric and English literature surpass history in popularity, two or three per cent take Greek, over fifty per cent are thumbing Latin lexicons, nearly ten per cent are accenting French, halving the students of gutturals. Latin died a natural death once and yet it is very much alive. More pupils take algebra than any other study. Latin comes next. The great body of Latin students is girls, both in secondary schools and colleges.

The seeker of methods of instruction should remember that there is but one method,—the frank, gentle, encouraging and tactful drawing out of the pupil. Have you never seen a teacher before his class, without book or pencil, away from his desk, in genial interrogation and explanation? The record book is an evidence that the pupils must work for grades. Sitting behind a desk keeps the teacher's personality too far removed. The text book in hand smacks of little familiarity with the substance of the lesson on the part of the teacher.

Of the eighty-eight graduates of New Trier, forty-two have taken advanced school work; eleven are at Northwestern, eleven at Illinois, three at Cornell, two at Wisconsin, one each at Wellesley, Smith, Dartmouth, Harvard, Colorado, Michigan, Ames, Chicago Normal and De Kalb Normal.

Alton, Bauman, Kultchar, and Elliott are the captains of the four teams.

The school is indebted to the class of 1907 for three casts representing portions of the Parthenon frieze.

The Winnetka Art League hung a large painting representing the industrial arts in the assembly room recently.

The physiography laboratory now is in the old manual training room.

A private room for the principal and teachers has been secured adjoining the office.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

The "Red Mill" now running at the Grand Opera House is one of the best shows in town. Stone and Montgomery are splendid in their songs, their make-ups, their impersonations; in fact they are just right. The plot is delightful and moves swiftly to a grand climax. The rescue from the mill is very exciting and well presented. If the first act had been finished the play would have been very complete. The songs were catchy and well rendered. The little Dutch kids in the last act were a decided success. Although they were
