FORT SHERIDAN NEWS

There has been a new Corporal appointed in troop "A" 13 Cavalry, an appointment that meets with the approval of the whole post. Corporal O'Malley is a capable man, and of sterling qualities, and has earned this honored and coveted promotion by long, faithful and patient service. There is no fear among his numerous friends but that he will honorably discharge the duties of his new trust.

Mr. John A. Downey, formerly Corporal in Company "K" 26th Infantry, who recently purchased his discharge, has accepted a position in the United States Postal service. Corporal Downey had been connected with Company "K" for almost eight years, and his absence is regretted by the members of his company.

Troop "A" 13th Cavalry, has recently purchased a piano and a piano player for the convenience of the school children. The theatre on that occasion should be filled to overflowing.

On Tuesday, January 21, the subject was Cuba. Mr. MacDowell's introductory was a brief answer to the question "What is the United States to do with Cuba?" After travelling through the Island and studying its people and their character he declares that it will take a generation yet before they are capable of self government.

The pictures in this lecture very graphically present the beauties of the Island and the story as it is told by Dr. Burton MacDowell gives a new meaning to the war in which Spain was driven out—as one looks at the places where Sampson silenced the guns of the old Nurro Castles and Hobson sunk the Merrimac.

But more striking still is the story of the development of the country under new rule and the domestic life of the people is finely illustrated.

Next Tuesday the last of the lectures is to be given on the subject of Jamaica.

pool table, and library of several hundred volumes. A soldier with these various amusements at his disposal, does not lead the dreary life as it is generally supposed.

The marksmen of the post are all looking forward to the coming target season, for this gives them a chance to increase their pay from one to three dollars per month more, which may perhaps be better than waiting for Congress to do it for them.

A new rifle will be used this spring and all are anxious to give it a test, particularly Corporal Samuel Hall, of Company "L" 27th Infantry. Corporal Hall is one of the expert shots of the army and has in the last three years attained a reputation that is hard to equal. Since the spring of 1905 he has qualified as Marksman, Sharpshooter, Expert Rifleman, Distinguished Marksman, and made a high place on the Department Teams for the past three years. In 1907 he was one of the select few chosen to compete for a place on the National Team, and the whole command feels great pride in having such wonderful shot among its numbers.

Saturday evening proved a very pleasant one for all who were with the sleigh party that left here to attend the dance at Deerfield. It was a glorious moonlight night and a more delightful time or a more congenial party would be hard to equal among those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Newbar, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Beible, Mr. and Mrs. Harner, Mr. and Mrs. Stoki, the Misses Becker, Summers, and Mauer, Messers Grabo, Gregory, and Fitzgerald.

The future Warrant Officers will meet again on Friday night at Shannon's store opposite the Guard House. Commissary Sergeant O'Keefe will preside as usual, and they will decide whether or not Sergeant Effer is capable of holding down the position of Provost Sergeant. A number contend that he is not, and a warm debate is looked for.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

THE MACDOWELL LECTURE

Great Pictures, Colored Views, Motion in Picture

Many North Shore residents are missing one of the finest things in entertainment and education that has been offered them.

Large as the Ravinia Park Theatre is it ought to be crowded at every one of Dr. Burton MacDowell's lectures. The lecture on Panama delivered last week was pronounced one of the finest descriptive illustrated reviews ever given, and it is to be repeated on Saturday afternoon

The attraction here this week and next is Augustus Thomas's latest American drama, "The Witching Hour." This stirring and daring play has created a furore in New York City, where it is now in its fifth month of crowded popularity, and, to judge by the enthusiasm of last Monday evening's initial audience at the Garrick Theater, the Western production of this footlight masterpiece of his will enjoy a record run in Chicago. From the rise of the curtain to its final fall there is unflagging interest in this play which contains many exciting episodes, while being, above all, a drama to appeal to the deeper thought of all who witness it. The heart interest is concerned with the tender love romances of three different generations, all suddenly brought into relationship by the striking dramatic events which link together many seemingly separate lives. Telepathy—the dynamic power of thought to work good or evil almost equally with one's own acts, furnishes the peculiarly original motif of the piece and Mr. Thomas has given a most impressive and suggestive exposition of the responsibility of people for the benevolence or malevolence of their thoughts without for one moment sacrificing the true dramatic elements and movement of the play itself.

MCVICKER'S THEATER.

Nothing need be said to commend "Way Down East" to the lovers of the really good and highly moral drama. The play has already been abundantly proven to the Chicago public and the managers can hardly have made a mistake in repeating it at this fine theater. It is a delightful story chastely and elegantly presented—a perfect contrast to the coarse and sensational play which comes down such strong condemnation on the stage.

Not for many years has an announcement of a theatrical attraction created so much advance pleasure as has that which tells of the visit of Denman Thompson in "The Old Homestead." Mr. Thompson's characterization of the gentle and lovable Joshua Whitcomb is celebrated from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts, and not alone is well known, but is loved. The personality of the actor, in this case, has reached across the footlights and Mr. Thompson is as much beloved for himself as for his fine acting. He brings with him on this, his first Chicago visit in several seasons, a splendid company. His engagement will be for two weeks only, and Chi-
