A BRAVE BOY SAVES A WOMAN FROM ROBBERY

The Waukegan Sun publishes the following letter which we copy because it is an illustration of the value of presence of mind with prompt brave action in an emergency.

The following tells its own brave little story and the SUN wishes to echo the sentiments of the unknown writer as regards the commendation of young Anderson, whom it thanks in the name of the women of this city. It would also like to know the name of the woman robbed. The letter:

Waukegan, Ill., Jan. 18, 1903.
Dear Sirs—Through the bravery and quick action of Hugo Anderson, my wife was last night, about 10:30, saved from a serious robbery.

As she was returning home last night she met young Anderson, who was closely followed by a short, wiry fellow, who had a face smooth shaven, wore a slouch hat and a short brown coat.

After the boy had passed, my wife turned around. It was a chance that the robber took advantage of. He snatched the leather bag out of my wife's hand and started up Grand avenue, running directly by young Anderson. As the robber passed him he made a quick grab for the handbag and as he happened to get a good hold on it he hung on. The robber stopped long enough to make a vicious kick at the young fellow, but that was all. The handle parted from the bag and the robber kept on.

The young fellow acted rather bashful as he handed my wife the bag. He gave his name as Hugo Anderson and I have since found out that he is a high school graduate. The handbag was gone before my wife could thank him with the words, "I'm glad I could be of service to you."

We wish to heartily thank him for the kind act through the SUN.

The $46 in the handbag was all we have in the world. I have been out of work for a month and with five children to support, the loss would prove serious to us. Hoping you will thank the little fellow, we are,
A GRATEFUL FAMILY.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Illinois State Historical society will hold its ninth annual meeting in the statehouse at Springfield Thursday and Friday, Jan. 30 and 31.

This being the semi-centennial of the Lincoln-Douglas debates of 1858 the Historical society will celebrate this historic anniversary by a special meeting in each of the towns where the original debates occurred on the anniversary of the debates.

able, on the spot where the original debates occurred. These celebrations will be local, but the Historical society has appointed a committee with local chairmen, of which Colonel Clark E. Carr, of Galesburg, is the general chairman. Colonel Carr has visited Ottawa, Freeport, Charleston, Jonesboro, Galesburg, Alton and Quincy, the seven towns where the debates occurred, and the local committees are now making preparations. At the annual meeting of the Historical society, Colonel Carr will report the progress of the arrangements for the celebration of the semi-centennial of the debates and will explain fully the plans of the Historical society and the local committees. Attempts will be made at the local meetings to mark the sites where this has not already been done.

A special volume will be issued by the library commemorating the semi-centennial of the Lincoln-Douglas debates. This will consist of the debates themselves, of historical material, explanatory of the times, of the two great contestants, and of reprints of interesting documents relating to the debates and the times, photographs and maps illustrative of the subject matter. The book will be handsomely printed and bound, and a very large edition will be printed. The book will be edited by Dr. Edwin Erle Sparks, and the editor hopes to have it ready for distribution in a very short time.

Teacher: "Do you mean to say you don't know what the exact antipodes to England is?" Scholar: "I forget, sir." Teacher: "Come now. Suppose you were to bore a hole exactly through the earth, starting from London, where would you come out at?" Scholar: "At the other end, sir."

Two ladies were discussing their respective husbands. Said the younger one proudly: "My husband is a self-made man." The other lady's grim lips relaxed in a smile, as she added: "Mine was made to order."
