

ber at the Lake, and the students will remain there until the Indian Summer days have passed, the work there being confined to naval lines, teaching the boys the ropes, knots and splices, the weaving of blocks and tackle, the use of compass and sextant and nautical instruments, with a goodly part of the drill hour devoted to rowing and sailing these safe Government cutters, enabling the boys to be taught the use not only of oars but sails in boats that are counterparts of those used by the Government Academy at Annapolis, and are staunchly enough built to be unaffected by the storms that would arise on our small inland lakes. The winter term will be spent at Highland Park emphasizing more particularly the military feature of the school.

The Academy has always been most favorably known not only as

but as an institution that trains its young men to be strong of character and gentlemanly in bearing and good citizens in truest sense.

Any citizen of our city will agree with us that the young men though seen upon our streets daily, are always found not only quiet and orderly but showing in all their actions and words the true spirit of gentlemen, and as much as we appreciate what this change of location fall and spring, will mean to the cadets in the school, we cannot but feel that it will be a real loss to the community.

The student holding the diploma of this institution will have covered work on not only rules of navigation, taking of bearings and soundings, laws of storms and how to avoid them, the use of sextant and chronometer, the determining of latitude and longitude, and in other words, it is expected he will be able to pass a United States examination as a master of a sea-going vessel, and should be able to take a boat anywhere.

HIGHLAND PARK NEWS.

A Local Industry Boom

Those who have seen the little miniature brushes manufactured by Mr. S. Levin of Highland Park, may have wondered whether these were simply some lilliputian toy-brushes or whether they had any actual value in utility.

The fact is they are answering to the need of every plate of the now popular graph as a cleaner of the records. Mr. Levin has just closed a contract with a firm of distributing agents for the exclusive sale of Record Sweepers. The transaction includes a big order of several hundred dozen of the little sweepers and it is expected this will be the beginning of a large sale in this and foreign countries, calling for a substantial manufactory.

Be careful about leaving your horse untied this windy weather. One horse started out the other day as if he was running for Alderman. In all probability he would have run till election day had not a brave citizen put a check to his high ambitions.
