WOMAN ARRESTED IN CHURCH.

Chicago, March 16.—Emma Moore, said to be the daughter of a former well known physician of Baltimore, was arrested at the First Presbyterian Church of Evanston after the Sunday evening service for trying to steal a five-dollar bill from the collection plate. She was observed by an usher, who informed a woman in the congregation. The woman talked with Miss Moore until the usher brought a police officer. It is said the woman is a victim of the drug habit, a result of a sickness in which laudanum was administered to her until she became its victim. At the police station, after her arrest, she became hysterical. She said she heard the minister say, "there is always hope." She wondered if there was, and went into the church, believing that she might pull herself up again. The drug cried out to her, and it won. When she saw the money, she could not resist the temptation to take it, she says.

ENFORCING LOCAL OPTION.

Springfield, Mo., March 16.—Reports received here from several places in southern Missouri counties show that since they have adopted local option sell liquor through boot leggers, blind tigers and other clandestine channels. Moonshiners in the hill sections have become active. To meet with this the anti-liquor element has grown aggressive, and the determination to enforce the law is declared with emphasis. In Shannon county, John Harlow was convicted on several counts of selling liquor, and fines were imposed aggregating $4,500. In addition to the fines, he was sent to jail for six months. In the same county John Bly was fined $600 on the same charge. The people in Shannon and other counties have put the ban on the liquor traffic and declare they will enforce the law to the letter.
