A Rough Time.—It is almost irresistible to add the familiar story about the late Dr. Temple when he was Bishop of Exeter. He turned up unexpectedly to spend the night at a country rectory, and the good rector, in the absence of his wife, did his very best to make his guest comfortable. He put him, of course, into the best bedroom. Next morning, when saying good-by, he ventured to express the hope that the bishop would bring Mrs. Temple with him next time. "Well, I don't know," said Dr. Temple, in his blunt way, and with a twinkle in his eye, "my wife isn't used to roughing it." The crestfallen rector confided this strange remark to the rectress on her return. "Where did you put him?" inquired that practical lady of once. She was told, "Why, my dear," she cried, "Ain't you know that I kept all the best silver under the sheets of that bed?"—The Christian World.
