

PRINCELY ENTERTAINMENT.

Double Event—Silver Wedding and Bridal Reception.

Highland Park was en fete on Friday evening, Nov. 6. The double event of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Steele and the wedding reception of their daughter, Mrs. G. W. Childs, and her husband was in itself an attraction that might well justify a brilliant assemblage. And in truth it was the occasion which made a really classical entertainment appropriate and gave to it a definite object and pervading spirit.

From the first moments when the visitors began to gather until the late hour of their departure the personalities of the genial hosts and hostesses were in evidence.

The reception indeed was a most interesting feature of the evening, 200 guests passing in file and testing the muscular endurance of the right arms of Mr. and Mrs. Steele and of the charming young bride and bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Childs.

A spontaneous and general movement was made towards the fine hall of the club house which has perhaps the best dancing floor of any place on the north shore and is equally adapted as a music salon.

The program was unique. It was sustained by only three persons, each, however, an artist and each making special appeal to the cultured audience assembled.

Mr. George Robert Jones was in excellent form in the opening serenades and captured his auditors instantly. But in the rendering of his interpolated wedding march in honor of the silver wedding he brought down the house and provoked the utmost enthusiasm.

Dr. Hugh Schussler of Chicago, who furnished the vocal solos of the evening, is a classical wonder. His voice is so perfectly under control and his technique is so thorough that the most difficult passages are rendered without apparent effort. In fact, the ease with which the doctor renders his bass variations is a provoking rebuke to the strain of wonder which affects his hearers. For ourselves we confess we would like to have heard him exchange one or two of his classical selections for a good, old fashioned bass solo, such as "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep."

The third person of the gifted trio of musicians was certainly not left in the shade. Miss Priscilla Carver was at her very best as accompanist and soloist, and that simply means, to a Highland Park audience, that it was in ecstasies.

The social hour which followed the musicale was not the least of the pleasures of the evening. Refreshments were served, and everybody was happy. Altogether the evening was richly spent and the Highland Park club house will not easily eclipse it for brilliancy.

The officers' club of the Northwestern Military Academy will give a dance on the evening before Thanksgiving. The management of the academy football team is negotiating for a big game Thanksgiving Day. Thanksgiving evening the annual football banquet will be given.

THE GUNNESS' CASE

LAMPHERE DEFENSE TO OBJECT TO ITS INTRODUCTION IN LAPORTE, IND., CASE.

COUNSEL DECLARE IT EX-PARTE STATEMENT

More Jurymen Are Accepted—Time of Defendant's Departure from Smith Home Is to Be Strong Point in Murder Trial.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 12.—The introduction of the coroner's report by the state early in the trial of Ray Lamphere for the murder of Mrs. Belle Guinness, it is expected, will precipitate a clash. That the state will seek to introduce the same is anticipated, and that the defense will probably object thereto is expected. "As direct evidence," said defendant's counsel Wednesday, "the coroner's report of his inquest is valueless, for it is an ex-parte statement. Only for the purposes of impeachment is it of value. If a witness tells a different story on the stand from that which he related to the coroner his testimony can be impeached by the coroner's records."

Venue men who wished to be excused from serving found by listening to the examination of the talesmen before them that all they had to do was to say that they had a fixed opinion in the case which it would take unusually strong evidence to remove.

New Move in Trial. The court and attorneys became cognizant of this fact Wednesday and Judge Richter made an order excluding venue men from the room until called to take their place in the jury box for examination.

With ten jurymen conditionally acceptable to both the state and the defense in the Lamphere trial both sides Wednesday morning started in to secure the eleventh and twelfth, but so slow was progress that four venue men were examined during the first hour without being acceptable to both sides. Both State's Attorney Smith and Attorneys Weir and Worden expressed the hope that the jury would be completed Wednesday afternoon so that the introduction of evidence could be commenced.

Although called as one of the principal witnesses for the state, Mrs. Lizzie Smith, the negro, and friend of Lamphere, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Guinness, intimates that when she goes on the stand, probably Thursday, her story will clear the defendant of the charge of murdering Mrs. Guinness and her three children by setting fire to the house on the early morning of April 28, 1908.

Time of Departure Vital. Lamphere came to Mrs. Smith's house on the evening of the 27th and remained there until between three and four o'clock that morning, according to the story which Mrs. Smith will tell. The exact time of his departure will be one of the points over which there will be a great deal of contention, for the time fixed by Mrs. Smith will be so late in the morning that it would have made the burning of the house by Lamphere impossible.

The prosecutor is confident the attempt to prove an alibi by the Smith woman will fail. Some months before the Guinness fire, when Lamphere was arrested at the instigation of Mrs. Guinness, Mrs. Smith settled the fine.

Examination of the third special venire of 25 freeholders was commenced Wednesday for the purpose of completing the jury, which at the commencement of the morning session had ten jurors who had been practically accepted by the state and the defense. With the further examinations which they will undergo it is likely that several changes will take place before the 12 men who will try the case have been finally selected.

Unrest

By Byron Williams

We dream of Venice far away
And long for Tasso's magic day,
While at the door our Venice lies,
Forgotten as the hour hand flies!
But she lies captive at his feet!
We pass because we know it well—
But never was redolence more fair
Than that which blends our native air!

The joys we have are flung aside—
Lothario wouldst thou find a bride!
The one he has is pure and sweet,
But she lies captive at his feet!
And thus, ungrateful, foolish band,
We seek the unexploited land!
Through foreign paths we madly roam,
And leave Contentment here at home!

New Treaty with Japan.

New York, Nov. 12.—The Herald Wednesday gave prominence to a dispatch from Tokyo that a report is prevalent in the high financial circles close to the Katsura ministry that Secretary Root and Baron Takahira are negotiating a new treaty between the United States and Japan.

"MAY I USE YOUR TELEPHONE?"

We have received the following sample of Canadian telephone humor. The telephone borrowing nuisance, unfair alike to the subscriber and the company, does not seem to have attained similar proportions here:

"This telephone is yours; we only pay the rent for it. It is more blessed to give than to receive.

"Please scribble on the walls as they need decorating.

"Long-distance calls our specialty; kindly do not offer to settle.

"Our family are prohibited from using the phone except between six and seven a. m. Sundays."—London National Telephone Journal.

MODERNITY'S TRIUMPH.

Papa was about to apply the strap. "Father," said Willie, firmly, "unless that instrument has been properly sterilized I desire to protest."

This gave the old man pause. "Moreover," continued Willie, "the germs that might be released by the violent impact of leather upon a porous textile fabric but lately exposed to the dust of the streets would be apt to affect you deleteriously."

As the strap fell from a nerveless hand, Willie sloped.

RATHER FIERY.

Old Uncle Hiram from down Bacon Ridge way halted in front of the "quick lunch room."

"Waal, begosh," he drawled in deep meditation, "I always heard that that was a blamed lot of fire eaters up in town, but I didn't know they would go that far."

"What, now, Uncle Hiram?" asked the city nephew.

"Why, just look at that sign, 'Lightning Lunches.' Just think of lunching on lightning!"

When a woman finds herself listening with genuine interest to a man's talk about business, his tales of his own sayings and doings, and can laugh when he tells the same jokes over and over again; she may feel reasonably certain that her love for him is "all wool and a yard wide."—Helen Oldfield.

CARMACK LAID TO REST

FUNERAL OF SLAIN TENNESSEE SENATOR HELD.

High Tributes Are Paid Memory of Late Solon—Services at Bier Extremely Simple.

Columbia, Tenn., Nov. 12.—Business was entirely suspended and the people of this city and county, together with large delegations from many other Tennessee counties, turned out in force Wednesday to do honor to the memory of the late Senator Edward Ward Carmack. Public buildings were draped in crepe out of respect to the memory of the man who met such a violent death on the streets of Nashville Monday afternoon, and a deep gloom pervaded the entire community.

The trains brought large delegations from all over the state to attend the funeral, which was held in the Methodist church. The funeral services were, at the request of Mrs. Carmack, very simple, but they were, nevertheless, very impressive, and the scenes at the church and at the grave where the distinguished statesman was laid to rest, were such as will never be forgotten by the assemblage of suffering friends present. The funeral services at the church were in charge of Rev. W. T. Boah, pastor of the First Christian church here, the church of which Senator Carmack was a member. Rev. R. Lin Cave of Nashville delivered the address at the church. At the grave, the burial was conducted with Masonic honors, the former senator being an honored member of the Masonic order. These Masonic exercises were presided over by Maj. John Williamson of this city, past grand master. As a mark of love and esteem, floral offerings were sent to Columbia from all sections of the state. These were added to the flowers sent from this city and county, constituting the most gorgeous collection of nature's beauties ever seen at a Tennessee funeral. The offering from the citizens of Columbia and Maury county was a magnificent pall which covered the entire casket, and was composed of American Beauty roses and white chrysanthemums, roses, lilies and ferns.

Other prominent floral offerings were sent by the members of the lodge of Elks of which Senator Carmack was a member; Winnie Davis chapter, U. D. C.; Bohemian club, George Milton of Knoxville, Columbia Herald staff, Century club, Columbia lodge of Elks, King's Daughters, public school children, county officials, W. C. T. U., and others.

SEeks BRYAN AS EVANGELIST. Pastor Again Urges Commoner to Preach the Gospel.

Burlington, Kan., Nov. 12.—Rev. French E. Oliver, who is holding a revival meeting here, has issued an open letter to William J. Bryan urging the Nebraskan to become an evangelist, and predicting that he would become an equal of the apostle Paul.

"Twelve years ago," writes Rev. Oliver, "I wrote you a letter in which I stated my conviction that you should preach the gospel, and added the statement that if you would consecrate your wonderful talents to God—as an evangelist—the Bryan of the twentieth century would equal the Paul of the first century, as a champion of the cause of Christ."

"Personally your three defeats have been three sources of sorrow to me, as I have hoped to see you elected to the presidency. Who knows? Perhaps God has withheld the presidency from you in order that you may become more to your country than president. I am firmly convinced that one ambassador of Christ of your caliber is worth more to this nation than 10,000 presidents."

POLE-SEEKER ANDREE IS DEAD.

Report That Body Has Been Found in Northern Labrador.

Copenhagen, Nov. 12.—There is reason to believe that the body of Professor S. A. Andree, the arctic explorer, who, in 1897, made an attempt to reach the north pole in a balloon, has been found on the coast of Labrador.

A letter received here from the captain of the Danish steamer Inga, dated Labrador, September 30, reports that Capt. Chalker, skipper of the American schooner Pelope, of Conception Bay, Newfoundland, discovered in northern Labrador a cross bearing the name "Andree," and that beneath this cross he found a body and a box of documents.

Wealthy Man a Suicide. Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—B. Frank Hall, a wealthy resident of St. Mary's, Pa., and a brother of State Senator J. K. P. Hall and Judge Harry Alvin Hall, shot and killed himself in a parlor car on the Buffalo express on the Pennsylvania railroad.

William Loeb, Jr., Secretary to the President, has been offered the position as editor of a St. Paul daily paper.

TOLD OF A MEAN FARMER.

Gift Mare Eating His Inherited Grass Aroused Him.

A leading official in the Young Men's Christian association of New York said the other day of the late Morris K. Jesup:

"Mr. Jesup's charity was even broader than his wealth. Naturally, then, he hated parsimony. I never saw him indignant save when some instance of parsimony would crop up.

"Once he told us here of a particularly mean trick that had been played upon him by a multimillionaire. He said that the man had inherited his meanness. His uncle, a Westport farmer, had been famed as a miser all over Connecticut.

"The farmer's cousin died in the 60s, and the old man attended the reading of the will, for he had hopes. "And, sure enough, in one of the later codicils a certain 80-acre field was left him.

"As the bequest was read out the farmer sat in his chair, rubbed his hands and smiled delightedly about the room.

"But the lawyer, reading on, made known that the very good gray mare then grazing in said field was bequeathed to a nephew.

"At this news the farmer clacked his lips in rage and piped excitedly: "Then she's eatin' my grass!"—New York Times.

Scandinavian Dinner Custom.

A strange custom obtains in Norway, Sweden and Denmark. At dinner parties, if the guests are not evenly matched as regards numbers, it is a custom for one man to offer his arm to another if the ladies are not sufficiently numerous, and in this strange manner the guests go to dinner.

The fashion we are told always appears grotesque to the foreigner, and is without charm and without grace.

FOUNDING THE SECOND EMPIRE.

Two Picturesque Episodes in a Period of Unrest.

Walking about the streets, riding on buses, junking up and down the river in steamboats, I was profoundly struck by the unrest among the people, their intense hatred of emperor and empress. One day I caught a glimpse of Rochefort, carried aloft on the shoulders of a mob of students thronging the Boulevard Saint Michel. I never saw a man looking so helplessly frightened as did the founder of the "Lanterne," then in its prime. Whether he feared the police or a fall I do not know. But his terror was abject.

In the summer time the emperor paid a visit to Beauvais. On the chance of getting material for an article acceptable in London, I journeyed thither with North Peat, who went down as representative of the Morning Star. The prince imperial accompanied the emperor, who drove through living lanes of people stretching from the roadway to the open windows of the topmost chamber. They came to see, but they would not remain to cheer. The occasion was the presentation of prizes gained at the local Lycee. The head prize was never delivered, the winner, a lad of 14, declining to accept it from the hand of the hated emperor.—Cornhill Magazine.

CAPTURES RUNAWAY ENGINE.

How a Plucky Engineer Overtook His Locomotive on an English Railway.

One of the finest stories in the history of the English railways centers round a runaway engine on the Stockton & Darlington line.

The engine was observed by the driver of another and more powerful one. Seeing the fugitive speeding in the direction of Darlington, he uncoupled his own engine, crossed the points and set out in pursuit on the same line. It was a long chase, but the pursuer, driven at top speed, gradually overhauled the runaway.

At last it came near enough for the driver to crawl to the front of his engine and drop a stout chain over the tender hook of the other. He returned to his footplate, shut off steam, and screwed down his brake.

This steadied the one in front and so retarded its pace that the driver was able now to creep from his own engine on to the runaway, put on the brake and bring it to a standstill, almost in the crowded Darlington station.

Barred Out.

"There's no telling what you may 'se to in time," said the teacher of the settlement. "Lincoln was president of the United States, and yet he was only a rail splitter."

"Ain't no chance for we'uns," spoke up a little towhead, "kase there's a no-nonsense law now!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Elections are past, prosperity has arrived. "Get busy."
