

ABOUT NOTABLE MEN

Senator Platt's autobiography is said to be so carefully edited that young people may read it without the slightest interest. —Augusta Chronicle.

The Rev. Dr. Shannon would have the word "obey" expunged from the marriage service. That would eliminate the only humorous features of the ceremony.

With respect to naming a battleship for Roosevelt, the question which Washington Star raises is, "Could such a vessel be expected to endure the action which a navy must experience?" —Atlanta Georgian.

Now it is announced that William J. Bryan is to be the chief actor in a political play written by himself. But that is not new. Isn't that what Mr. Bryan has been doing all these years? —Florida Times-Union.

Mr. Knox pays a high tribute to the Constitution in giving up four thousand a year for it, and the fact that someone registered about the Constitution in the Enclosure case, is an encouraging sign of the changing times. —Augusta Chronicle.

If John G. Wooley, as reported, has abandoned the Prohibition party, his work is done. There has been a profound misunderstanding in the country as large as to what the work of the party was. —Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

A Statesman—Shortly after Mr. Gladstone's death a local politician delivered an address upon the life of a statesman before a school. When he had finished, he said: "Now, can anyone tell me what a statesman is?" A little hand went up, and a little girl replied: "A statesman is a man who makes speeches." "Hardly," answered the politician, who loved to tell the story. "For instance, I sometimes make speeches, and yet I am not a statesman." The little hand again went up. "I know," and the answer came triumphantly: "A statesman is a man who makes good speeches."

He Settled it Quickly
A big-boned and loud talking youth, of seventeen had, a revelation, which he voiced in prophecy, that it was his duty to whip me and to run the school. He sat himself down among the girls one morning and began a discourse which was more or less personal to myself. I understood, as well as he, that the hour had come. Walking over to him, I wrapt the fingers of my left hand in his long hair and with the fingers of my right hand I clutched the collar of his coat. I had pitched hay and chopped wood, and my grip was pretty good. Lifting him off the seat, I turned him once in the air and then let go. He hit the wall ten feet away and went down in a lump. Pretty soon he passed a trembling hand across his eyes and looked up. His knees were wobbly, but by and by he could walk. After that he sat at his own desk, meeker than Moses and purring like a house cat. —Senator Burrows.

As He Saw It Then and Now
I worked hard, but it was a contest with poverty all the time. The young men of today don't know what it is to fight for an education, and those who are clothed and fed and given every opportunity by their fathers are utterly unappreciative. I found that I was making no headway and went to Jefferson, the county seat, where I was engaged as principal of the village schools. The children of Wade and Giddings were among my pupils, as were the sisters and brothers of William Dean Howells, the novelist. My salary was too small to remember. —Senator Burrows.

The Advantage
John Bright used to tell how a barber who was cutting his hair once said to him "You've a large head, sir; it is a good thing to have a large head, for a large head means a large brain, and a large brain is the most useful thing a man can have as it nourishes the roots of the hair." —

Roosevelt
Teddy, we have joked about those Spectacles and Teeth.
We have joshed you on your Strenuous Proclivity;
Now a little word, at parting, for the heart that beats beneath
And the Purpose that was true to your activity.
For you're going—for you're going, and we scarce believe it's true;
Yes, a sort of lonesome feeling, like an arrow, shoots us through—
By the Laws that got the scrubbing
And the Trusts that took the clubbing.
It will be many a cold, hard winter ere we see the like of you!
—Wallace Irwin.

PURE OLIVE OIL

at the old price of $1.25 per quart. The recent earthquake at Messina, where a large portion of oil came from, destroyed the vineyards and caused the price of oil to go up to at least 25 per cent more than the previous price. I have the french Olive Oil and laid in a stock beforehand, and will sell at the old price.
