WEEK TARIFF NIGHTS

WICH ADVANCES PLAN TO HOLD LENGTHY SESSIONS TO END DISCUSSIONS.

IMPORTERS IN HOT TILT

er of Iowa Causes Finance Committee Chairman to Retract Statement About "Bringing Importers' Briefs" Here.

Washington, June 2.—Apparently senate is upon the eve of night sessions for the consideration of the tariff bill. Senator Aldrich, chairman of the committee on finance, indicated in an official way his intention of holding such sessions by presenting a resolution providing that, beginning next Tuesday, the daily sessions should begin at 10:30 a. m. and continue until 11 p. m., with an intermission of 2 1/2 hours, from 5:30 to 8:30 for dinner.

Person Prevents Consideration. Senator Culberson, the Democratic leader, prevented immediate consideration of the resolution by making an objection, which had the effect of forcing it over.

Senator Aldrich, however, gave notice that he would move a recess at 10:30 until 10:30 a. m., with the intention of then asking for night sessions for the carrying out thereafter of the plan as indicated in his resolution. There is no doubt that the Republican majority, including the progressives, will support him in his position.

"Threat" by Aldrich.

During the discussion caused by the motion, Senator Aldrich stated that unless greater progress should be made next week still longer hours would be necessary. Senator Bailey characterized the remarks of the chairman of the finance committee as a "threat," but Senator Aldrich declared that such was not the case, and in support of his declaration called upon the senate to witness the fact that there had been no effort to curtail discussion on the tariff. Senator Martin stated that business might be accelerated by the early reporting of the finance committee's recommendations on hides, wood pulp, zinc, lumber and coal, to which Senator Aldrich nodded assent.

Proposes Cotton Reduction. Making up the cotton schedule for deficit, Senator Aldrich proposed amendments reducing from 25 per cent ad valorem the minimum duty that may be charged on thread of cotton, crochet, darn-embroidery, cottons on spools, and from 20 to 15 per cent the minimum on cotton thread and carded cotton. These amendments were referred to the committee on finance.

Clash between Senator Aldrich and Senator Dolliver occurred almost immediately as the senator from Iowa attempted to obtain agreement to an amendment offered by him to replace ad valorem rates a line of specialties on cotton cloth, not gingham, dyed, mercerized, colored, printed or printed. Senator Dolliver declared that this amendment was a recent increase in the rates in 70 per cent of the articles affected, according to the book of estimates compiled by the committee on finance.

Denounces "Importers' Briefs."

In protesting this amendment, Senator Aldrich referred to senators who were bringing importers' briefs here to affect the schedules, and argued that ad valorem rates, through interpretations made upon the rates of the tariff law had been reduced from 10 per cent ad valorem to two, three or four per cent. It was to prevent this kind of lowering of the rates that the committee proposed to have specialties on cotton cloth.

In a reference of the senator from Rhode Island to senators bringing importers' briefs here, Senator Aldrich referred to the senator to his feet in an attempt to interrupt the speaker. Senator Aldrich declined to yield and Senator Dolliver was obliged to wait, with increased indignation until he had "got the floor in his own right."

The honorable senator from Rhode Island, began Senator Dolliver with deliberation and in sarcasm, "seems to think this is a fine time to settle things and I will settle them with him."

Senator Aldrich took his seat and moved toward the central aisle of the chamber looked ahead and directed away from the senator from Iowa, who continued:

"There is one thing that ought to be settled. I do not propose to submit without protest and an appeal to the senate to insinuations that I stand here reading any briefs or that I represent anybody except the people of the United States. What little light I have been able to throw upon this subject I have gained by careful study."

That he was not conscious of any derogatory statement in reference to Senator Dolliver was the substance of Senator Aldrich's reply to the indignation of the senator from Iowa. If he had done so, he said, he was willing to apologize.

Senator Dolliver appealed in indignant tones to the Rhode Island senator not to further refer to him as holding a brief of an importer or any one else, and to give him credit for having ideas of his own about the schedules of the tariff bill.
