THE ROAD TO PARADISE

Byron Williams.

You talk about your glory and emotions of delight,
I sorter went it tip-toe gist a year ago to-night!
Th' spellin' school was over and Old Baldy and the gray
Was zipping me and 'Zory through th' timber in my sleigh.
Th' moon was mostly meller and th' runners, slick as time,
Was singin' 'tantalizin' in a sort o' croonin' rhyme:
'Sh! Sh! Sh! She's-for-you!
Sh! Sh! Sh! Woo-woo-woo!
Fraidy-cat! Fraidy-cat!
You! You! You!"

Th' air was crisp and bitey and Izory smugged up—
Th' hull blame world was nectar and by jing, I held th' cup!
You see, we'd been a-courtin'—that is, kinda—quite a speck;
I'd never up and ast her—I was scared of her, by heck!

I pined for her like sixty, but I never dared to pop—
'To-night,' sez I, "I'll do it 'fore them runners up an' stop."
'Sh! Sh! Sh! She's-for-you!
Sh! Sh! Sh! Woo-woo-woo!
Fraidy-cat! Fraidy-cat!
You! You! You!"

We rid along together, neither one a-sayin', "Well!"
Oh, I was LIVIN' glory and afraid t' break th' spell!
It may have been excitement, fer my heart was beatin' stout—
I knew I HAD to ask her, er I'd bust my thorax out!

They seemed a sort o' somethin' that was chargin' up th' air
With about a million amperes from them pesky runners' dare:
'Sh! Sh! Sh! She's-for-you!
Sh! Sh! Sh! Woo-woo-woo!
Fraidy-cat! Fraidy-cat!
You! You! You!"

"I'll give you gist a penny," sez Izory, 'for your thoughts—'
My mind all jammed together intew idiotic naughts!
She laffed and sed: "Which would you rather do or go and fish?"
She knew, dog-gone her picture, what it was that I would wish—
I couldn't tell fer jumpin' of my heart, a keepin' time
To them plague-taked runners and thes' tantalizin' rhyme:
'Sh! Sh! Sh! She's-for-you!
Sh! Sh! Sh! Woo-woo-woo!
Fraidy-cat! Fraidy-cat!
You! You! You!"

I braced myself and waited—when a "thank-ye-marm" ris up
And spilled th' nectar over and by jing, I drained th' cup!
It threw Izory Jenkins straight into my tremblin' arms—
I'm holdin' her hereafter through th' hull world's "thank-ye-marms!"
I taught them pesky runners to be slingin' up their dare—
We use them now fer rockers and they croon another air:
'Sh! Sh! Sh! Ba-by-dol!
Sh! Sh! Sh! Coo-coo-cool!
Go to sleep! Go to sleep!
You! You! You!"

Tenth Anniversary of Woman's Club

RECIPROCITY DAY.

Reciprocity Day and the tenth birthday of the Highland Park Woman's Club was celebrated Tuesday, at the Ravinia Park Casino by more than one hundred women representing women's clubs from all points along the North Shore. Mrs. George Campbell who is the president of the club, suggested that Mrs. Benjamin A. Fessenden, who was the original organizer of the club, be asked to preside. So this motion was carried.

The dining room and hall were beautifully decorated with leaves, and cut flowers decorated the tables.

Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. Prior, Mrs. Duffy, Mrs. Vivian, Mrs. Underwood, Helen Garnett, Helen Coale, Mildred Coale, Isabelle Ewart, Gertrude Schaffer, Lillie Bell, Helen Conrad served the luncheon. Following which the guests adjourned to the hall and listened to an unusually interesting program.

The idea of the meeting was to bring the different clubs together and show more clearly what important things have been accomplished by the women of the various clubs.

Miss Wedge of the Scientist church sang several beautiful songs. Mrs. Thompson, one of the first members of the club, spoke to the women on the need of the public keeping Ravinia Park as a high class Park and of the need of the protection of our trees on the North Shore. She was followed by Mrs. Samuel Cobb, who gave an interesting talk on the home treatment of the child, in regard to his reading and of the great good accomplished by the Travelling Libraries. Mrs. Steffens of the Resamie Club of Waukegan, who told of their work in establishing the first reading rooms in Waukegan, their work in getting public drinking fountains, kinder garden work, and domestic science was first introduced in the schools through them. Through their City Committee they have secured one block on the beach.

Mrs. Colby, President of the Kilo Club, told of the great work they were doing in bringing good lunch rooms and rest rooms within the reach of the girls who work in Chicago. Here they are furnished with good wholesome food at a small cost, and also are able to hear the best talent, both literary and musical, through the lecture courses that Kilo provides for the girls.

Mrs. Frances Everett, president of the Illinois Federation, told that Illinois had now a library extension commission, which has been much needed in our State.

Mrs. Victor Sanborn of Kenilworth, read an interesting paper "What Women have done for each other."

Miss Brown who is the only woman stage director in the United States, gave two very clever and entertaining recitations.

The meeting was closed by all singing "Auld Lang Syne," and the congratulations of those who were to the Highland Park Women's Club, and many hopes that the club would continue to grow as it has the past ten years.
