Mrs. Walter Carr gave a dinner last Monday evening. Covers were laid for eight. The color decorations were yellow.

Mrs. Gerard-Van Schaick, of Vine avenue, entertained at dinner Thursday.

I Thank Thee

FOR the daily task, a little too big and a little too hard for my present ability, and for the daily increase of power that comes to meet it; for the trial that comes to strengthen and purify and not to destroy; for the opportunity to give that makes me richer: for the privilege of service that proves me not worthless in the world; for the unspeakable honor of working with Thee and meeting some need that Thou hast of me—which I cannot understand but can believe; for the friend who walks with me shoulder to shoulder through the valley of the shadow, and then with a glad face and ringing voice grips my hand as we climb together the bright hills of victory; for the loyal and sympathetic friends near and far—Thou knowest the number of them—who inspire me and help me, and, best of all, who believe in me; for the past, because it is past, and because it was necessary in Thy providence, and because it held the beginnings of all things now cherished; for the present, because it is the only time which I can claim with certainty for doing the things that must be done, and because it is full of opportunity and the beginnings of greater and better things; for the future, which, though it is only a hope and purpose, holds bright visions that beckon me on and challenge me to do my best today; for Happiness, of which Thou hast given me a generous share; but more for Joy, which Thou wouldst not limit, as Thou wouldst not limit obedient and loving service; for Thy provision, Thy providence, and Thy promises, and for the certainty gained from experience that Thou dost hear and answer the cry of need, and, therefore, that Thou wilt accept the thanksgiving of an eager, grateful heart—DEAR LORD AND FATHER, I THANK THEE.

EUGENE THWING.

The members of the Woman's Club listened to an interesting talk on cake baking which was demonstrated by the making of a cake by Miss Weiss, of the Associated Schools of Domestic Science on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Carlotta Noble, representative of the school was also present. It is hoped that some of the Highland Park women will take advantage of a series of such demonstrations, which are given monthly in Chicago. Miss Fletcher was the soloist of the afternoon and played several beautiful selections on the piano.

The engagement of Richard Hawkins and Magdeline Arthur, of Holyoke, Mass., has been announced. No date has been set for the wedding but it is thought it will take place in the spring.

Royal Arcanum.

Highland Park Council No. 1066 Royal Arcanum entertained their members and friends on Monday evening at Masonic Hall on Sheridan Road, the occasion being the 22nd anniversary of the Council.

Mr. Frank B. Green opened the entertainment with an address of welcome. Mr. Ripley, state regent, gave a short address about the growth and protection of the Royal Arcanum. He complimented the Highland Park people on being able to live in so healthy a place, for during the twenty-two years of the Highland Park Council's existence only eight of its members had died. An interesting program was given.

Miss Murdock, violinist, gave these solos:

Souvenir	Didla
Nocturne op. 27	Chopin
Minuet	Beethoven
