Not for Him
"How about going to the theater tonight?" inquired the young lady.
"What, and miss seeing the new comet?" responded the economical young man.

That Would Help
"So you want to become a first-class stenographer?"
"I do. Does it take long?"
"All depends. Do you know how to spell to start with?"

Many a man is proud of his past—because it is past.
Politeness pays enormous dividends on the investment.

Woman in Korea.

In Korea when a girl is married she appears at the wedding ceremony with her face painted a ghastly white, her lips dyed scarlet and her eyelids pasted together so as to deprive her entirely of sight. Korean women are compelled to work very hard; but as a rule, they are well treated by their husbands. They have pretty names, meaning plum, blossom, treasure, etc., but after marriage are known only as So-and-so's wife until they have a son, after which they are known as the mother of that son.

Mr. Bliggins' Baskets.

"Bliggins must be a liberal provider," said the observant citizen. "He always takes two baskets to market with him. But I wonder why one basket is so large and the other so small?"
"The large basket," replied Miss Cayenne, "is to carry the money to market and the small one is to bring the provisions back."

Dr. Blank, a professor in the University of Virginia, was on the eve of a trip to Europe, to be absent two years.

In pathetic and rather harrowing tones he made his farewell address to the class: "Yes, I am about to part from you. This is more than distressing to me. Would that there was a window in my breast, my dear boys, that you might see the innermost recesses of my heart."
A stripling in the rear, seized with a happy thought shouted: "Professor, would a pain in the stomach do?"

Another Moving Job

"Moving again, Fizz?" asked Pullet as Fitzgoober came out of the gate with a washtub tightly clasped in his arms and trailing a mirror behind him.
"Yes," moaned the afflicted man, mopping his perspiring brow. "I'm going to leave this hole."
"What for? Don't you like the neighborhood?"
"Oh, no, not that. The neighbors are all right."
"Water not good, maybe?"
"No better can be found."
"The rent hasn't been raised, has it?"
"No. That's the reason I'm going to seek another house."
"What!" exclaimed the surprised Pullet. "Moving from a place because the rent has not been raised! Surely you don't object to that, Fizz?"
"No, I do not," sadly replied Fitz, as he started back for the kitchen set of furniture, "but the landlord does, you know."

Lucky Joe

Tom—I wish that I had Joe's good luck.
Dick—So he's generally lucky?
Tom—Lucky! If he had walked out of the window in his sleep in the dead of night there would be another man going by below carrying a feather bed.

Summed Up

D.—So you and the handsome Braubelle girl are one?
T.—That's what I thought when the parson married us, but I have since concluded that we are ten.
D.—What do you mean?
T.—She is one and I am nought, my dear fellow.

Egyptologist—Here is a papyrus on which the character are so badly traced that they are indecipherable.

How shall you class it?
Keeper of Museum—Oh, I shall just call it a doctor's prescription in the time of Pharaoh.
Bella—Don't you think Jack Faber has beautiful eyes?
Julia—His mouth impressed me most.

Fat Man—What, are you going to let that small boy shave me?

Barber—Let the boy have his fan for once. It's his birthday, sir.
