HIGHLAND PARK A SUMMER RESORT

By the unwritten law manufacturing is never likely to get much of a foothold in Highland Park, at least not during the life of the present generation.

On the other hand Highland Park does outstrip all its neighbors as possessing the finest hotel any where along the North Shore.

While principally catering to high class families it will also accommodate moderate transients.

To the splendidly equipped Moraine hotel, and the summer resort to be conducted in the Academy buildings and the Central hotel and the several first class boarding houses in town and Highland Park can easily stand first as a hotel town for fifty miles along the North Shore.

OBEY THE LAWS OR REPEAL THEM.

Some weeks ago we called attention to a custom of riding the bicycle on the sidewalks. We were told, we know not by what authority, that the law would be enforced after the 1st of May.

Perhaps the custom which we believe all will admit is without excuse where the streets are macadamized, is not as objectionable as it seems to us.

We remember on one occasion not long ago, when riding with a Highland Park Mayor, he drove his horse at a sharp trot across a bridge which had at each end the customary sign of $5.00 fine for riding faster than a walk. More than once we had the same experience with an alderman (a law maker).

If the ordinance against driving across a bridge faster than a walk is not a proper requirement have it repealed at once.

But some one argues that a weak plank may be in any bridge without being known and a trotting horse stepping on it is more likely to break through than a walking horse.

But the question of damage or no damage in case of accident is not the real issue. The serious evil of disregarding this or that law is the fact that it is a dangerous education.

A SUFFICIENT SALARY FOR THE LABORER.

It has become quite popular recently to pass laws not only Federal but State laws holding an employer responsible for any accident to his employee.

We have never looked upon such laws with much favor. It is not because we lack sympathy with the laboring classes, for we have generally classed our self as belonging to the laboring class;

No man is at his best when somebody else is forced to bear the responsibility which he himself ought to carry. In fact it is a general law of development that an individual, man, woman, or child acquires power largely in proportion to the responsibility resting on him or her.

We would hold the employer strictly responsible if through any carelessness or negligence on his part his employee was injured. We hold further that the employee should pay sufficiently high wages to enable the employer to meet his own losses caused by accident not due to the employee's negligence.

In other words the laborer should be paid at least a wage which with ordinary prudence and economy would prove sufficient to give him and his family, if he has one, a comfortable living, a yearly surplus sufficient to provide for old age, and also to provide for accidents.

This means that every laborer should be able to carry a reasonable amount of life insurance sufficient to care for his family in case of his premature death; and an accident insurance to protect himself if disabled by injury.

BEER UNFITS FOR WORK SAYS KAISER.

Drinking, He Asserts, Hampers Germans in Commercial Contests.

BERLIN, May 4, 1910 The kaiser is being applauded by one section of German opinion and condemned by another for his sharp condemnation of the beer swilling habits of German students.

The emperor declared that the drinking habit was seriously damaging, not only to individual students, but to the German nation, with the result that both were falling behind foreigners, particularly Americans and English, who in consequence of their more sensible ideas regarding drinking by youths showed in later years much greater power of resistance in the battle of life.

The kaiser pointed out that Germans, with their increasing world enterprise, would be more than ever called upon to live and work in tropical latitudes, where the climate was exceedingly dangerous to men who in their youth were addicted to alcohol.

INDIANS FIGHTING BOOSE.

Headed by their chiefs and councilors the Indians on the Yakima reservation, south west of Spokane, Washington, have started a crusade against the saloons at Toppenish and Wapato in the irrigated district and are circulating and signing petitions asking the revocation of licenses forever and the wiping out of the traffic, which, they say has been forced upon them.

The petition is headed by Chas. Wesley. Other signers are Head Chief George Waters, Wm. Charley and Lancaster Spencer.

Wm. Charley, one of the leading men of the tribe, declares that every Indian on the reservation will sign the petition whether he drinks or not. He says the Indians fully realize that liquor is ruining their race.

The petitions carry exactly the same wording to the two councils as follows:

"We the undersigned chiefs, councilmen and laymen of the Yakima Indian reservation, becoming alarmed at the increasing death rate among our people, beseech the municipal councils of Toppenish and Wapato to revoke all licenses now granted for the sale of spirituous liquor within the corporate limits of said town forever.

We not only ask but we expect those of our white friends who have the welfare of our tribe at heart to help eliminate this blighting evil which has been forced upon us.—The Danville Banner.

When in doubt tell the truth. We ought never to do wrong when people are looking.

Few things are harder to put up with than the annoyance of a good example. Let us be thankful for the fools, but for them the rest of us could not succeed.

There are two times in a man's life when he should not speculate, when he can't afford to and when he can.—Mark Twain.

TO GAIN POWER

One goes to a university not so much to gain knowledge as to gain power; not so much to learn to know things as to learn to do things. We must learn things to enable us to reason, to enable us to grasp problems. You get just as much out of your education as you put it in energy.

During the past year we have had many fires and on numerous occasions have been short of men on account of not being able to notify the members of the department. There were thirty men calls, twelve being house and barn fires, twelve being at night, and twenty were wood fires. The expenditure for the department for the year was six hundred feet of new hose $558.00, Firemen's pay for year $175.70, two tarpaulins and other miscellaneous supplies $65.45, other expenses $25.00, making a total for the year of $824.15. WHITNEY OPERA HOUSE:—The hundred thousand or more people who have seen William Norris in "My Cinderella Girl" which is now in its third month at Whitney Opera House, Chicago, are anxious in declaring it the funniest ever written, and now Mr. Norris is ever content with giving the public laughs than they ever had before in evening, has added a dozen musical numbers, and several more of the prettiest girls who have ever appeared on a Chicago stage. The music is by William Frederic Peters, composed "The Mayor of Tokio", and some of the biggest song hits are "My Cinderella Girl", "Now and Then", "Put it in the Pan McCann", a rousing bass game song in which the audience join and "I'd Rather be a Friend of Yours Than Someone Else's Dear". The numbers are all staged by Gus Sohke who has originated more novelties than he had in "Three Twins". "My Cinderella Girl" promises to break the record at the Whitney, as the ad sale for several weeks to come is large.

WHITNEY OPERA HOUSE:—It is surprising how quickly a show can catch Chicago, providing it is composed of elements that go to make a popular success. William Norris, in "My Cinderella Girl", is actually turning money from the box office four out of the week at the Whitney Opera House. In fact the "House Sold Out" has been in evidence several evenings and at one of two matinees, even the doors are open for the performance. Of course this result is a measure of the popularity of the comedian, but the show also contains every requisite for an ideal summer attraction, laughs follow one another with rapidity that it is impossible to them. During the past week a musical has been supplied by William Frederic Peters, which is light and melodic with two or three song hits which bound to become popular. A young, vacuous, and exceedingly pretty girl, daintily costumed appear at frequent intervals, they have been carefully chosen by Gus Sohke whose staging
