PRIZES FOR BEST DRILLED MEN

Troops Alive to Their Chances in Chicago

The soldiers at Fort Sheridan are being drilled thoroughly every day in preparation for the big military tournament which will be held in Chicago as part of the Same Fourth Celebration. Prizes are offered for the best drilled regiments, and the 27th, stationed at Fort Sheridan, is working hard to capture some of the prizes. Fancy drills, which will delight the eyes of spectators, will be part of the daily program at the Fort. ## FLAG DAY:

The North Shore Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, according to its custom, invited the public to share in its observance of "Flag Day," on Tuesday evening, June fourteenth. The decorating in Library Hall had been beautifully done, for the flags seem to know the touch of Mrs. Egan's hands, and will hang more gracefully for her than for any one else. The newly elected regent, Mrs. Frank B. Green, presided with her ever ready wit and tactfulness. Patriotic songs were sung by the High School Glee Club, and selections were read by Mrs. Egan, Mrs. Warren, Miss Egan, and Robert Shields. Mrs. Fessenden spoke of the society known as "The Children of the Republic." The event of the evening was the presentation to Mrs. W. C. Egan, the regent retiring after eight years service, of a beautiful sverdish. In presenting the gift the fact was emphasized that the patriotism and loyalty, as always displayed by Mrs. Egan, are essential elements in the character of the people to enable any country to take its place among the nations of the earth, and to be recognized as a power. Mrs. Egan's surprise was so great that she was speechless until the lighting blood of many Revolutionary ancestors came to her aid, and she was enabled to express her thanks. The program committee was disappointed in getting the illustrated lecture that had been promised, but everybody responded so willingly to request at the last

Mrs. Heffernan is one of wide experience and great study of the relations of the parents to the school and to children; she very cleverly brought to both parents and teachers minds many things that possibly they had either never thought of or had knowingly neglected.
