

of engines which are soiled by dust and lubricating substances. The better varieties of cotton waste are very good for scouring purposes, but the cheaper grades are charged with dust, and in using them a sponge cloth, specially manufactured for the purpose, is employed. In using blotting paper for scouring purposes the use of cotton waste is decreased and the sponge cloths are entirely dispensed with. On an average the German workman received under the former system 250 grams of cotton waste, one new sponge cloth and one or two renovated ones every week. Now he is supplied with 150 grams of cotton waste, and about eight or ten sheets of blotting paper, at a cost of 2 1/2 cents, or one-third the cost of the cotton waste. The paper is not only cheaper, but it does not soil the machinery with fibers and dust, as do the woolen refuse and the sponge cloths. It is also less combustible than other cleaning materials, and if it should be caught in the machinery while engines in motion are being cleaned it tears easily and the workmen run no risk of having their hands drawn into the machinery.—Harper's Weekly.

Gen. Logan and Staff.
Just before the capture of Savannah, General Logan with two or three of his staff entered the depot at Chicago one fine morning to take a car east on his way to join his command. The general, being a short distance in advance of the others, stepped up on the platform of a car and was about to enter it, but was stopped by an Irishman with "You will not be goin' in there." "Why not, sir?" says the general. "Bekease this is a led-dies' caer and no gentlemen'll be goin' in there without a ledly. There's was sate in that caer over there, if yees want it," t the same time pointing to it. "Yes, I see there is one seat, but what shall I do with my staff?" "Oh, bother your 'staff!'" was the petulant reply. "Go you and take the sate and stick your staff out of the windy."

Saw the Light.
"The subject of tips—made in Europe and closely imitated in the United States—always furnishes something new to the American tourist," said a man just back from Europe. "I had some clothes made in London. The tailor came to my hotel with a boy who carried his parcel, to 'have a fit.' He wore a high hat and prince Albert coat, and but for his shoes would have passed for well dressed. After the fit was over and the garments were packed up he was leaving the apartment when our English servant reminded me of the tip. I was afraid and, if I had overcome the fear, did not know the limit, and asked the servant to perform the operation. When they had gone I was told: 'You want your clothes to fit, sir, don't you?' And I saw the light."

An Expert Accountant.
Mrs. Newly—Don't you like my new hat, dearest?
Newly—Yess, it's all right.
Mrs. Newly—Well, I bought it on your account, dear!
Newly—Yes, you usually do.—Brooklyn Life.

VALUE OF PROPERTY RIGHTS

How One Small Boy Was Cured of Destructive Propensities by a Lasting Lesson.

Small boys are very apt to fail to recognize the value of others' property. My small son, in company with a playmate, in a game used the lights in a neighbor's henhouse for a target. The owner of the damaged property visited both houses, where the culprits hid in dismay, and collected damages. Here was a valuable opportunity for a lasting lesson. I called my boy to me, and we talked the matter over, he having full chance to explain his side of the case. Then the mischief he had wrought and the reputation it might give him were gravely discussed.

He voluntarily offered to refund the amount of his part of the damage out of his small savings until full restitution was made. This was finally agreed upon, and here came the hard part for the boy. His pocket money allowance was 25 cents a week, which was frequently reduced by fines for ill-temper or other sundry breaches of etiquette or duty. It took him seven weeks to get out of debt.

When the last cent was paid, he gave a sigh of relief, and said: "There, I'll never destroy anything again as long as I live."—Harper's Bazar.

World's Oldest Tree.

The recent rose show given in Paris by the French Horticultural society revealed the fact that the oldest rose tree in the world is believed to be one which grows on a wall of the cathedral at Hildesheim, Germany. Eleventh-century records make mention of expenses incurred by caretakers of the cathedral in maintaining this tree, which covers the wall to a height of twenty-five feet and is twenty inches thick at the root.

ROYAL COUPLE FLEE

KING ALFONSO AND QUEEN OF SPAIN START FOR ENGLAND.

TANGLED STATE OF AFFAIRS

Rumors That Ruler Will Not Return to Madrid Are Not Supported—Government Gains Support From Press of Opposition.

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 2.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria have fled the country. The young king, dismayed at the bitter enmity shown towards his queen by the clericals, suddenly left with her for England. There she will be safe during the disorders, which soon likely will rend this kingdom.

Stops to Advise With Fallieres.
The royal couple will stop in Paris on their way to England and have a conference with President Fallieres. Much significance is attached to this, as France has done to the church what Spain, in a lesser degree, now is attempting.

When he has established Victoria safely at the court of King George, the king will return to Spain, it is said, going direct to Madrid. There he will take full charge of the tangled situation growing out of the government's defiance of the church.

He will have to face:
An agitation for a Carlist uprising.
The unrest among Catholics in his own country, thousand of whom are considering taking up arms to fight for the church.

Queen Victoria of Spain.

An uncompromising attitude of the Vatican.

It was said in radical quarters after the king's departure that he never would return, but this idea is not supported.

Press Veers to Government.

With Catholics at Rome expressing hopes that Don Jaime, the Carlist pretender, may raise the standard of revolt and that the Catholics of the Biscayan provinces will rise in insurrection, and with the socialists of Spain threatening disorder, the Imparcial, which has been unfriendly to Premier Canalejas, ranges itself on the side of the government in the pending conflict with the Vatican. The liberal press in general continues staunchly to support the cabinet, which has a free hand to carry through its policy as a result of the departure of King Alfonso and his queen.

Priests Preach Against Opponents.

Bilbao, Spain, Aug. 2.—Roman Catholic priests throughout the Biscayan or northern provinces of Spain preached violent sermons against the policy of the government is its conflict with Rome. Preparations for a general Catholic demonstration against the state's rulers August 7 are being continued, in spite of the declaration of the government to its organizers that no demonstrations threatening disorders would be allowed.

WOMEN HELD IN DEATH CASE.

That Former Judge Was Drugged and Robbed Is Theory at Parkersburg, W. Va.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Developments of a startling nature are promised as a result of two arrests and two other impending apprehensions of suspects in connection with the mysterious supposed murder of Former Judge James A. Watson, whose body was found last Friday. Lulu and Jessie Metz are held by the police and it is stated that other arrests will follow.

The police theory is that Watson was drugged and robbed of a large sum of money, the poison resulting in his death.

Swine Breeders of Indiana.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 2.—The annual meeting and scoring school of the Swine Breeders' association of Indiana opened today on the Montgomery county fair grounds with a large attendance. The work will continue through tomorrow and licenses will be issued to all who qualify to judge swine. Milbert Saylor of New Market is president.

MARKETING by TELEPHONE

THE retail merchant's telephone serves not only as a salesman but also as a purchasing agent.

When a merchant finds that he is going to run out of a line of goods, he calls up his wholesaler or factory and not only orders a new stock, but comes to an agreement on the price and the time of delivery.

The unexpected needs of his customers can be met with the least possible delay. If the merchant cannot find what he wants in town, the Long Distance Service of the Bell System brings him into immediate communication with other cities and other markets.
