STATE SUPERINTENDENT BLAIR APPRECIATED.

To the Voters of Lake County:
In view of the large number of candidates to be voted on in the coming election, due consideration may not be given to one of the most important positions in the gift of the voters; it seems, therefore, that attention should be called to the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The present incumbent, Mr. Frances G. Blair, is, in our opinion, one of the strongest men in this line of work in the United States. Mr. Blair is a scholar, a capable public speaker, a hard worker, and a thoroughly efficient public official. He is doing a great work in standardizing and uplifting the country school and it is imperative that this great work should go on under the direction of a man who thoroughly understands the needs of this part of our educational system.
We, the undersigned, heartily recommend him to the voters of Lake County.

SMILING AND FROWNING.

Some women were discussing stores and how they liked to trade at this store or that, and how they didn't like some other store or stores. At some, there was the most ready disposition to please and a pleasant attention given to the desires of the customer. At others, this was not so apparent, and sometimes there was really a moody temper exhibited. "I don't like to trade there," said one, "on account of this apparent cool indifference. I like to trade at —," she said; "there the salespeople are so nice and accommodating." Then the little cleavage presented itself, arising no doubt from the difference of disposition exhibited at the counters. A mere man overhearing such conversation naturally arranges the facts so as to produce an explanation or to gather therefrom a bit of practical wisdom, and in this case he did not have to go far to reach a measure of success. It was always the manager of the store that came in for a touch of criticism, and as just and careful as he might be, was his temper and disposition that permeated the entire establishment. When he frowned the store frowned; when he smiled the store smiled.—Ohio State Journal.

Whaling formerly was extensively carried on and was a perilous occupation. The business is not yet free from danger, notwithstanding "modern improvements." In the earlier days the chief risk was to the crews of the whale boats which put out to harpoon and follow the big cetaceans. Then it was a case of hunting the whale, with the latter frequently turning on the boats and smashing them, the men thus being menaced with drowning. Now the tables seem to be turned to a certain extent, and the whales hunt the ships. At all events news comes from Alaska that a whaler was wrecked in Alaskan waters by a whale which had been harpooned and which gave the vessel such a crushing blow with its powerful tail that the ship sank in four minutes, the crew having barely time to take to the boats, in which they reached the shore.

A woman in Chicago wants a divorce, charging that her husband tries too hard to make himself beautiful. In this respect she declares he has not behaved handsomely.

Now that the scientists have found the exact weight of mother earth the old lady will probably be so embarrassed that she'll have to remain at home for all time.

When the doctors discover a way to prevent cramps from seizing a man while he is in swimming they will fill a long felt want.

European travel, we are informed, is bad for the temper. For once no mention is made of the very necessary pocketbook.

A New Jersey savant says mosquitoes would rather eat plants. If so, the ones we have are blamed self-sacrificing.

Vacations may not be mandatory as that New York justice rules, but no one will deny that they are enjoyable.

If King Menelik really should die this time it would be months before he could make anybody believe it.

An aeroplane is going to try to beat a train, but the majority of people will still prefer the train.

Girl graduates henceforth will not be the only ones who know what it is that lies beyond the Alps.

If a woman can't wear a hobble skirt to church, what's the use of having one?
