SOMEBODY CARES

HE GAVE HIMSELF FOR YOU—GAL. 2:20

Somebody knows when your heart aches
And everything seems to go wrong;
Somebody knows when the shadows
Need chasing away with a song.
Somebody knows when you're lonely,
Tired, discouraged and blue;
Somebody wants you to know him,
And knows that he dearly loves you.
Somebody cares when you're tempted,
And the world grows dizzy and dim;
Somebody cares when you're weakest,
And farthest away from him.
Somebody grieves when you've fallen,
Though you are not lost from his sight;
Somebody waits for your coming,
Taking the gloom from your night.
Somebody loves you when weary;
Somebody loves you when strong.
Always is waiting to help you,
Watches you, one of the throng
Needing his friendship so holy.
Needing his watch-care so true;
His name? We call his name Jesus.
His people? Just I and just you.
—Fanny Edna Stafford.

COLLEGE STUDENT WINS HONOR DEGREE

Friends of Miss Ruth Adelle Sampson, a member of San Diego's younger social set, who is making a brilliant record as a student at Stanford University will be interested in hearing that she has been recently elected as one of five members of her class to membership of the Cap and Gown, the senior woman's honor society of the university.

Miss Sampson is president of the Women's Athletic Association, President of the Boat Club and has been active in athletics at the university for several years. She also has been in several dramatic productions.

Miss Ruth Adelle Sampson was born and grew up in Highland Park, was graduated from Deerfield Township High School with the Class 1906. After a year of rest and travel she entered Stanford University, besides her activities in University affairs she has gained two honor societies.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

One of the rarest and most beautiful occasions ever attained by a married couple is the Golden Wedding Anniversary. To Mr. and Mrs. John Fitch Curtis came this great joy which they wished to share with their relatives and friends. The invitations to their golden wedding anniversary were lettered in gold English script with the dates eighteen hundred and sixty and nineteen hundred and ten. The invitations read "Mr. and Mrs. John Fitch Curtis, at home Sunday afternoon December the twenty-fifth. Fiftieth Anniversary, Four until seven o'clock." Preceding the reception Mr. and Mrs. Curtis entertained at dinner twenty five relatives. All of their grand children were present. From far and near the relatives came to help Mr. and Mrs. Curtis to celebrate this festive occasion. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were Mr. and Mrs. John F. L. Curtis and the daughters, Mrs. Eugene Bournique, Mrs. McWhinney and Mrs. Moore.

The informality of the occasion and the hospitable manner of the hosts and hostess and those assisting added greatly to the pleasure of the many guests.

The house was beautifully decorated in quantities of roses, violets and greenery, the floral offerings of friends and relatives. In one room stood a table covered with gifts.

This rare occasion brings back to the minds of the oldest residents of Highland Park the first golden anniversary ever held here. That of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Boyington about twenty years ago.

CRAZY COSTUME PARTY

New Year's Eve was celebrated at the Highland Park Club by a crazy costume party. The hall room was comfortably filled and many of the costumes were grotesque and original. Mrs. Skiels received the ladies prize. Her gown was a queer affair, the goods of which was a paisley pattern. She carried a miniature white muff swinging about her neck by a narrow ribbon and the hat was a tiny white creation trimmed with a jaunty feather and worn on the side of the head. Mr. L. F. McClellan received the man's prize. His costume was seemingly a combination of everything "crazy." One couple that came in especially unique costumes were Mr. L. Erickson and Miss Jean Hitchcock. Mr. Erickson represented an Italian organ-grinder and had with him a hand organ and a toy monkey. Miss Hitchcock took the part of an Italian woman and wore a red flannel shirt-waist, an old black skirt and large brass ear-rings. She passed the hat for money as the organ-grinder played.

"The Little Damsel" an Immediate Success at the Whitney

"The Little Damsel", the comedy of London Bohemian Life which Henry W. Savage is offering at the Whitney Opera House has proved an immediate and immense success. All of the promises of merit made for it in advance of its coming to Chicago seem to have been carried out in a more than satisfactory manner, for the critics of Chicago newspapers have had nothing but good things to say of both the play and the manner of its presentation. The comedy gives an accurate picture of existence as it is followed by those types of Englishmen who read the Soho district of London such an attractive section of the world, and in placing these types upon the stage the author succeeded in emphasizing the characteristics by furnishing the characters of his story with lines that are at once tender, comprehensive, and witty. His epigrams illuminate Mr. Hille's interesting story in a way that is calculated to have these flashes of combined humor and philosophy remembered and repeated.

Especially have the Chicago reviewers gone out of their way to praise the work of the Savage company which interprets the play. Cyril Feathley and May Bookley who play respectively the chief male and female roles were enthusiastically commended and the work of Frank Laey, George Graham, Henry Wenman, Henry Vogel, and Mary Corse who are the most important members of the organization appearing in the lesser roles was with a generous mood of discrimination applause.

"The Little Damsel" is a novelty which has already shown itself capable of overbalancing the apathy which usually makes itself felt among the theatregoers in the holiday season. Crowded houses have been the rule thus far at the Whitney and will continue to be.
