

SIDE DISH
JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME

st Tuesday I had occasion to visit field, and was unfortunate enough to walk back, when about half this side of the village, my attention was attracted to a beer bottle lay along side of the road, and a further on lay another, so I made my mind to count the number of bottles lying along the road between Highland Park and Deerfield, number being ninety-three; the number of men staggering by were six; the man carrying a sack containing four bottles, I am sorry to say those family neglectors were all Highland Parkers except one, and he from Highwood; it is this class of that go to Deerfield and elsewhere, pick up beer and whiskey then return to their home town only to enter the business house with such vile liquors that they are ejected from the place, which causes a row, the police called, arrests are made and the party tried and fined. Now comes the rub, the news flashes throughout town that so-and-so was arrested for disorderly conduct while intoxicated, the next remark you hear "Isn't it to be expected that we have blind pigs in our city?" the next thing we hear is some one in the office, all out of breath, telling why we do not call attention to above in our paper. Now, my dear friend, let me say here that I am strictly temperance man, something that but printers can boast of and that I know of no "blind pigs" in our city, if I did, and I could substantiate the fact to show that such existed I would report the matter to our Chief-of-Police and not try to shoulder it on the half price printer.

am out of humor to day and the more I think the matter over of what I should about to mention, the worse I feel. About slavery, are you aware that out here in Highland Park we have men that never work, but sit in their easy chair feet thrown upon the edge of the stove and probably a cigarette in their mouth which is sufficient to make them think they are the second J. D. Rockefeller in wealth, plenty to eat, drink, smoke and wear, and with no work upon their minds. Oh! isn't this a waste? But hold on, just take a walk into a poor man's kitchen, what do you see? A poor frail little woman laboring from early morning till late at night after week over the wash tub in order to support one that upon his oath to God had promised to protect and support her during his and her life. It is all well and good for people to be out their laundry, but they should do out first wheateer or not the poor man is compelled to do such work in order to support a strong, healthy man, one that can easily make a living for good as you or I; there are women that have had the misfortune to lose their husbands through death, having left with small children, it is to be expected that should have your patronage, not those that make slaves of themselves in order to keep up a worthless man, by doing so you encourage idleness.

The foot bridge one block north of the Ravinia depot and on Railway Avenue is getting very shakey and either the city or the Electric Railway should see to it before one or the other has a leg to pay for.
