TRYING to do business without advertising is like winking in the dark. The merchant may know what he is doing but nobody else does.

Sturdy Swedish Girls.
Bathing in Sweden is a business. Even the hotel bathrooms are extraordinary—regular suits of rooms, one for the bath proper, one for shower baths of various sorts and one for a drying room, wherein you find enormous towels as large as American sheets. The public baths are luxurious. They are built around courts where, after the bath you may have your coffee under great trees surrounded by beds of beautiful flowers. It is apt to bother Americans a bit to find that the bath rubbers for both men and women are strapping Swedish girls, businesslike and unashamed. But this is only one manifestation of the advanced activities of woman in Sweden. You find her occupying all sorts of positions. You see her boldly swinging off street cars without waiting for them to stop.—Harper's Weekly.

Seven in Human Life.
A writer divides the human life as follows: At three times seven a man reaches a competent age in the eyes of the law; at four times seven he is in full possession of his strength; at five times seven he is fit for the business of the world; at six times seven he becomes grave and wise if he is ever destined to; at seven times seven he is in his apogee, and from that time he begins to decay; at eight times seven he is in his first climacteric, at nine times seven he is in his grand climacteric, and at ten times seven he has reached the allotted span of life.

The Dear Girl.
"Wife, why don't you make some flannel cakes?"
"I will if you wish it," said the bride.
"Shall I use red or white flannel?"—Kansas City Journal.

DEFIED THE KAISER.
A Pilot Who Knew His Business and Had Lots of Nerve.
In a fit of impatience because the speed of his yacht was slowed down on entering a certain harbor, the German emperor on one occasion tried to assert his authority, and rang the bell for "Full speed ahead." To his great surprise, the pilot, an old Norwegian named Nordhuns, who knew the dangerous character of the channel, placed himself in the way and, leaning over the wheel, called down the tube to the engine room, "Half speed ahead—never mind the bell!"
"What! You dare to countermand my orders?" cried the impetuous monarch, again ringing the bell.
"Disregard the bell," calmly repeated Nordhuns through the tube.
For a moment the kaiser glared at the intrepid pilot, and then, drawing himself up to his full height, said majestically, "Go below, sir, and report yourself under arrest."
"Leave the bridge!" thundered the Norwegian grimly, as he grasped the wheel more firmly. "This ship is in my charge, and I'll have no interference with my orders from emperor or seaman."
The officers on deck hurried silently aft, wishing luck to the sturdy old sea dog, who, knowing that he had the law as well as common sense on his side, stood at his post unshaken by threats, unheeding commands, and steered the Hohenzollern safely into port.
The next day the emperor came to his senses and decorated the pilot—the king of the Black Eagle and also appointed him his life pilot in Norwegian waters.—Pearson's Weekly.

Oily Petrels.
Various sea birds, especially the petrels, contain a large amount of oil in their tissues, and for this reason are greatly valued by the inhabitants of the Scottish coasts, who obtain from them "oil for their lamps, down for their beds, a delicacy for their table, a balm for their wounds and a medicine for their distemper." On the island of St. Kilda as many as 20,000 birds are killed in the one week of the year when this killing is legal. So rich in oil are some of these birds that their bodies can be used as lamps if wicks are passed through them.—London Live Stock Journal.

Early Welfare Work.
The "sick fund" among factory employees was known as far back as the first quarter of the nineteenth century, a manufacturing company at Dover having established it for the benefit of employees. A hospital for factory operatives was established in Lowell in 1830. The charges were $4 a week for the men and $3 for the women. If they were not able to pay, the employing corporation became responsible.—New York Evening Post.

The Explanation.
"How was it the thieves got away with that roll of carpet?"
"I suppose they beat it."—Baltimore American.
