The wedding of Miss Una Plagge daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Plagge and Mr. Floyd Stanger, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stanger took place on Saturday afternoon, October twelfth at three o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's gown was white lingerie hand embroidered and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Orsborne, sister of the groom, who was a bride of last spring, wore a gown of white voile and yellow silk and carried white roses. Mr. Orsborne, brother-in-law of the groom acted as best man. Miss Cecelia Miller, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march on the piano. Rev. Frederick E. Black of Aurora performed the ceremony which was followed by a supper. Only the immediate families of the young couple were present at the wedding. The decorations of the residence were pretty and attractive. Red carnations were the prevailing flowers used in the drawing room while pink carnations composed the decoration of the supper table. The bride's traveling suit was of blue serge with which she wore a tailored hat of blue velvet. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stanger will be at home after their return from a trip in Iowa at the residence of Mr. Plagge of Deerfield Avenue.

Ignored the Hint.

The midnight stillness of the darkened parlor was punctuated by a crash just overhead.

"Who what was that, dud-dud-dud-dud?" exclaimed the young man.

"Merely father dropping a hint," she replied as she snuggled a little closer. — Philadelphia Record.

PASTORS PRAISE PLAY

"The Man Higher Up" at Olympic Lauded by Chicago Clergy

Rarely in the epochs of theatrical history does a drama arise to amuse, interest and instruct American playgoers which contains a moral and civic lesson that gains the heartfelt and unqualified indorsement of Chicago clergymen in a body. Such a play is a rarity, prized by all high-class producers and its continuous success is a foregone conclusion.

"The Man Higher Up," the new American drama of love and politics, which is opening another chapter in the Olympic Theatre's record of all-winter runs, received the vote of approval from 400 Chicago ministers and an audience of church and social workers at a special performance on Tuesday, Oct. 8. The clergymen who attended were of all denominations,—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, but they were in entire accord while manifesting their enthusiasm for thrilling dramatic incidents of "The Man Higher Up." The clerical audience was fully as unreserved in their applause as the laity who nightly throng the Olympic Theatre to witness this stirring stage picture of municipal graft, reform and romance.

At the end of the performance, Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Director of the famous Abraham Lincoln Center, went behind the scenes and personally congratulated; Edward Ellis, Miss Janet Beecher and other principals of the company, for their skill in portraying the play's moral.

Said Dr. Jones later: "That excellent group of actors were able to do more effective work on that large mass of people than I or any other Chicago preacher or group of preachers could have done in the same time."

"The Man Higher Up" contains all the types of folk that commingle in the operation of a city government, including politicians low and high, policemen, saloonkeepers and grafters, and it also contains earnest reformers and society people of the "upper crust." But its moral strikes every walk of life.

The cast includes the following: George Parker, Francis Byrne, Eugene O'Rourke, George W. Wilson, Albert Perry, Ka'e Jepson, Ada Gifford and Grace Henderson.

WRITES BOOK ON "IGNITION"

First Book by Carl Pfanstiehl is Published. Illustrated by Oscar Bell

Mr. Carl Pfanstiehl has achieved success with his first and recently published book entitled "Ignition" which is a book with original diagrams and photographs, the text being a clear and simple explanation so that the amateur has no trouble in comprehending the authors meaning. The drawings are excellent and were prepared by Mr. Oscar Bell, a graduate of Deerfield-Shields and son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bell of 127 Highwood Avenue. "Ignition" is published by the Penton Publishing company of Cleveland, Ohio and consists of one hundred and thirty-four pages. As a writer of articles for magazines Mr. Pfanstiehl had won a name in the scientific world and his book written after many urgent requests, received a warm welcome.

Business Principles.

Dolly—So, Simpkins, the cashier of the bank, proposed to you last night?
Polly—Yes, and I promised to marry him.
"Did he ask your father's permission?"
"Yes; he said he would ask papa to indorse my promissory note."
