Points for Mothers

For Overanxious Mothers.
If overanxious young mothers only knew what to do first in the case of fevers and colds which attack their babies many and many a doctor's bill would be saved. With the high cost of living now confronting us, that is an item to be considered.

Children have fever very easily; consequently it has not as much significance as it has in the adult. But, nevertheless, even a slight fever caused by eating too much cake at supper must be watched or it may develop into a serious illness.

With the first signs of fever, the flushed cheeks, glittering eyes and hot, dry skin, it is usually safe to give a cathartic; then stop any solid food and give an alcohol friction bath in the following manner: Remove all clothing and wrap a clean dry sheet or lightweight blanket around the child.

Expose one small portion of the body at a time, beginning with the chest, and apply equal parts of alcohol and water with the hand or a piece of absorbent cotton. Rub the dampened skin briskly, but gently, with the hand until it is entirely dry. Do not dry with a towel. Moisten the skin again and rub-dry the second time, and in this manner go over the whole body. Allow plenty of time for the skin to dry in the rubbing. This reduces the fever by the cooling effect of the rapid evaporation, and the friction brings the blood to the surface in health giving circulation.

Allow the child to drink plenty of water unless there is excessive vomiting. Cold water helps to reduce the fever and carry off the poisonous products within the body.

If the fever has not been controlled within twelve hours and the mother does not know what causes it, so that she may not cure it entirely, she should not take the responsibility of treating the child herself, but should send for the doctor, so he may have a chance to prevent serious trouble.

Fever always appears with a cold. The best way to treat colds is to prevent them. To do this the child must have fresh air every hour of the day in all seasons. Avoid exposure, direct drafts and wet feet.

Let it wear warm, sensible clothing, and give a cold sponge bath every day. Give only nourishing food, plenty of sleep and routine exercise.

Suggestions For a Child's Room.

There are many suggestions which are helpful in making the child's room the beautiful, cheerful, aesthetic domain it should be. Above all things, it should be simply furnished and the color pleasing and restful. A splendid idea was carried out successfully in a child's room. At one end of this room a platform raised one step above the level of the floor and extending about six feet from the wall was thickly padded with a material that toned in with the wall covering. This padding also extended up on the wall for about four feet, thus protecting the child from all bumps and falls. Here he played all day, beyond the reach of drafts and out of harm's way, says Harpen Thompson.

A few small rugs in front of the bed and chiffonier which covered the solid carpet were of the old-fashioned kind woven from rugs, soft in color and having fanciful figures, animals and quaint old houses woven into the border.

A charming screen, covered with the child's best loved prints, stood in one corner, behind which were placed these toys which were not in use or those which had done duty during the day.

The furniture, very simple in design, was enameled in white or gray paint, which can easily be renewed, and the curtains hung softly in the windows, reaching only to the sash, and were so arranged that they could be removed easily and washed often.

Pedagogically, it is better to have some few, good permanent pictures on the walls in good head of George Washington, a beautiful Madonna, depicting the ideal mother love, and good reproductions of some of the masters; and others that can be replaced as the child's tastes change and as his interests deepen than to place permanent dadoes of Mother Goose pictures or unreal animals, poorly drawn, which he must look at day after day, whether he grows tired of them or not.

After all, the child's room is his kingdom. Here he works and plays, and he should find freedom and happiness, and, if the feeling of charm and peace prevails, then unconsciously he receives his first premonition of beauty of form and color and proportion.

Plas For the Children.

The indulgence of one's children is continually the concern of mothers. The best qualities of food and sterilized milk may form the diet, and yet there is trouble. Only too often the difficulty lies not with the diet, but with bad mental conditions, physical fatigue or chills. Mothers should never reprimand the children about table manners while at the table, but give instructions at some other time and let the children practice at each meal. While it is not good to pamper young tastes, nevertheless indulgence will result when a poor, unhappy child is commanded to swallow what it does not want.

The Social Side of Life Local Affairs of the week

By the Observer

Several Highland Park people will take part in a musical burlesque "Lady May" to be given in two acts with words and music by P. D. De Coster, which will be presented by the Service club Saturday evening at the Fine Arts theatre, Chicago, under the direction of the author composer. Miss Miriam Steever, who is the recording secretary of the club, will take part as will Miss Lucile Showers, Mrs. C. G. Alexander, Miss Lenora Hoyne, Miss Hazel Page, and Hoyné Wells all of whom are well known here.

The wedding of Miss Edith Livonia Case, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Case of 1934 Orrington Avenue, Evanston, to Mr. George Williams Pearson, took place on Thursday evening at half after seven o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents. Rev. William T. McEveen read the service assisted by the brother, Rev. Prentiss H. Case of Quincy, Mich. The bride has been a frequent visitor and has many friends in Highland Park.

Mrs. Carleton McCulloch Vail of Laurel Avenue, and Mrs. Frederick Keith Hill of Oak Park, sisters of the bride, were the matrons of honor and Miss Helen Aldrich, Miss Josephine Pearson, sister of the groom, Miss Mary Bates of East Orange, N. J., and Miss Eleanor Miles of New York, were the bridesmaids. Little Edith Winifred Vail, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and James Orchard, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. Marion Yeaw of South Orange, N. J., and Elizabeth Schumacher of Sandusky, Ohio, were train bearers, and Miss Ethel Watts played the wedding march. The bestman was Mr. Farrington Carpenter of Hayden, Colorado and the ushers were Messrs. Kenneth Carpenter, Bayless French, Harold Wing, and Harold V. Hovey of Winchester, Mass. Following the ceremony a reception was held from eight-thirty to ten o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson will be at home after February first at the Elmwood apartments, 908 Main Street Evanston.

On Thursday evening, November 28, the Christian Endeavor of the Ebenezer church, will give a social at Mr. O. B. Brand's residence at 211 E. Central Avenue. A musical program has been planned.

No Nicknames.

It's by far the best plan to choose an attractive baptismal name for a child, and the name once given, stick to it. Elizabeth should never become Betty, Bet, Lizzie, Beth or Liz. Mary is far lovelier than Mamie. Caroline is a worthy and beautiful name, but Carrie is not. Jennie is a common diminutive of the stately and infinitely to be preferred June. Dolly for Dorothy, Lulu for Louise, Gertrude for Gertrude, Nell for Helen, Mattie for Martin, Kitty or Katie for Katherine—oh, don't!

And don't let the children nickname each other. When Tommy begins to call little Margaret "Buttons" because she has a row of shiny buttons on her new coat discourage Tommy with earnestness. And when loving grandparents and uncles and aunts insist on calling Baby Rosamond by such names as Rosie-posie, Pet and Precious check them tactfully, lest there come a time when Rosamond rise up in wrath and denounce you for letting her be called out of her name.

Miss Victoria Pownall has issued invitations to a studio recital to take place on Tuesday evening, December third, at eight-fifteen o'clock. Miss Pownall will be assisted by Miss Marion Williams, violinist; Mr. George Gordon Beck, baritone and Mr. Day Williams, cellist.

An informal dance will be given by the Frithem Lodge, No. 21, Independent Order of Lady Vikings, on the evening of Saturday, December seventh.

About sixty guests attended the children's party given by the Eastern Star members in Masonic Hall Saturday evening. Under the direction of the entertainment committee, Mesdames F. Moon, Fritz Bahr, Lyman Sexsmith, W. Marshall, and Byron Stevens, games and refreshments, following a short program, were enjoyed. Jane Marshall and Esther King of Lake Forest, and Gladys Tucker and Hazel Bell of this city, appearing in costume, delighted those present with several neatly executed dances.

Among the box holders at the Chicago Grand Opera for this season are C. N. Kimball, W. W. Lupkin, Julius Rosenwald, and Frank R. McMullin. Many Highland Park residents have secured season tickets and are hearty supporters of the company.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church met on Wednesday afternoon of last week in the church parlors. Mrs. Charles Schaffler, vice president, had charge of the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Tillman, president. Mrs. M. D. Hardin, wife of Rev. Hardin of the Third Presbyterian church of Chicago, who is secretary of the board of the northwest for China, was the speaker of the afternoon and spoke interestingly and charmingly of China and the work that is being accomplished there by the missionaries. Mrs. R. Calvin Dobson read two letters from missionaries to China. Rev. and Mrs. Kepler Van Evera, who recently sailed for Hang Chow, giving accounts and telling interesting details of their voyage and expressing satisfaction at the work ahead of them. Hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. John Gurley, Mrs. Robert Patton, Mrs. Frederick Watkins, Mrs. Lucius Hine and Mrs. E. B. Metzler.
