The Man Across the Street

There is another reason why Mr. O'Keefe may not be postmaster of Highland Park; he has stated that he will not give up the management of the Railroad Men's Home, and the law says that postmasters in cities the size of Highland Park shall not hold any other position.

Women at the club and men at the club have one thing in common: The conversation at both clubs usually concerns women.

While, from this distance, we may have the right to look upon Mexico and its people as uncivilized and unenlightened, engaged principally in setting up and knocking down governments of the officers of which, we fondly argue, should take lessons from the great and glorious United States, the unenlightened lawmakers of that country have put a few laws on their books, probably between revolutions, which make it appear as though the 'shoe was on the other foot.' For instance: These unenlightened people, whom American owners of Mexican property say need the subduing influence of American soldiers, have two laws prohibiting child labor in their cotton and other industries; one is the 14 year age limit and the other the $1.25 (Mex) a day wage limit.

Those tunny looking humps and crescent shaped piles of earth, hazards we believe they call them, are probably necessary to the game of golf, they give the player something to worry over as he drives his ball from hole to hole. But the law is not golf, even though there are many amateurs cluttering up the course of the good lawmaker in the same manner in which poor players impede the progress of the good golf player, and the primary law should not be a hazard put in our way to make the game more difficult. Either the primary law is good or it is bad. If it is bad it should be abolished or made good. If it is good it should be used. The Man Across the Street, for one, does not like to believe that we are sending lawmakers to Springfield and paying them salaries for making laws that are only made to be evaded.

MRS. SWAIN SAYS:
"During all the 33 YEARS that I have kept house I have never used a more satisfactory furniture polish and floor cleaner than NU-FINISH. Accept my highest recommendations for same."

NU-FINISH
is a marvelous dusting, cleaning, polishing liquid. With it you just dust in the usual way—but what a difference! No dust flying in the room to settle down again. Every speck is taken up and taken out—not just stirred up. And, at the same time, with no extra work, your furniture, woodwork and hardwood floors are cleaned and polished. Try a 25c bottle.
