A better example of the charitable spirit of Highland Park could not be better displayed than it was on Tuesday night at the Highland Park Club when so many of the families of this city were represented at the exhibit, cafeteria supper and amateur vaudeville which was given as a benefit for the fund to be used in carrying on the work of the bathing beach and at which the sum of six hundred dollars was cleared. At three o'clock in the afternoon the doors of the ball room were opened to admit visitors to the exhibit which was a display to dazzle the eyes and tempt the palate for in the booths, which were bowers of pink rose buds and vines clambering over green trellises, were exhibited the triumphs of cookery which many women of the town had perfected before donating the article to be displayed and sold. The exhibition room was beautifully decorated and from the arched ceiling hung heavy festoons of foliage with thousands of pink rose buds intertwined, donated with the compliments of Mandel Brothers. To every class of food a booth was given wherein the chairman and her assistants were installed to wait upon the guests.

There are not adequate adjectives to describe or space to enough to give to descriptions of the particularly fine examples of the culinary art but the list of names of ladies receiving blue ribbons is published at the close of this article. There was an especially fine exhibit of electrical articles in one of the club rooms while in another room were wonderful and attractive examples of sewing, fancy work, patterns of rare quilts, and place cards for sale. At five thirty the dining rooms were opened and through Mrs. C. C. Hughes, chairman, and her many able assistants, the wants of the guests, whose good spirit added greatly to the pleasure of the serving of the supper, were well attended. The coffee which was exceptionally fine gave the finishing touch to the good supper and was donated by Mr. Carleton Mosely.

Following the supper came the vaudeville and though a short program, every person who appeared did his or her part splendidly and that the audience was well pleased was shown by the applause. The fact that Mr. Arthur Kraft of Chicago, the well known tenor was unable to fulfill his engagement was lost sight of in the enjoyment of a monologue by Miss L. Kittredge Kennedy entitled "The Boarding Housekeeper." The curtain raiser was a mandolin duet of the raggiest rags of up to date music by Roland Hastings and Jack Childs, this was followed by a Russian dance by Miss Dorothy Clark who wore a native costume of rare attractiveness. Although called back time and time again by the audience no encore was given. Messrs. Ellis Faxon, and Carl Bawman gave several fine mandolin and piano selections. This was followed by a short intermission during which Mr. George Allen Mason auctioned off the original Ossoli poster drawn by Mr. Briggs. This brought ten dollars. A sketch well acted and the cause of great laughter and fun was then put on by Miss Kennedy and Mr. John Tuttle.

Although the plans for Domestic Arts and Science Day originated in the Ossoli Club it was a day for every Highland Park and to all the ladies in this city who assisted by donations or purchases is due the success of the entertainment at which the men and boys, when evening came, gave so freely of their money. The utmost skill and practical ideas shown by the managing committee whose members were: Chairman, Mrs. Rex L. Jones, assisted by Messrs James W. J. Fyffe, C. C. Hughes, G. Although a complete list of the ladies winning prizes was not kept, the above names are as many as could be obtained. The judges considered the exhibit splendid and it was a difficult task for them to assign the prizes as there were many unusual and good dishes. Thirteen ladies acted as judges: Mrs. Robert Harvey, Mrs. Fred W. King, Mrs. Henry Olcott, Mrs. Robert Palmer, Mrs. Henry J. Smith, and Mrs. Stanley Midgley, from the Domestic Arts and Science School of Chicago; Mrs. Stambwood, Mrs. William Pusey, Mrs. Kingsler and Mrs. John Spry of Evanston; Mrs. C. F. Crain of Ft. There was a splendid exhibit of baskets made by Indian women which represented the work done by eighteen different tribes. Several specimens were on exhibit of which the Field Museum of Chicago has no duplicates. The money obtained from the sale of the baskets goes directly to the woman who made the article. Of the use of the proceeds made by the sale of tickets for the entertainment at 25 cents the D. A. R. will make public announcement at their next regular meeting. The tea table at the entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Frederick Boynton and Mrs. Truax and the candy table was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Learning and Mrs. Garzett who were assisted by several of the young ladies who were present in the audience.

An Odd Legacy.
Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Jefferson family of actors, was remembered curiously in the will of Weston, who was himself an esteemed member of Garrick's company. Weston's will contained this item:
"I have played under the management of Mr. Jefferson at Richmond and received from him every politeness. I therefore leave him all my stock of prudence, it being the only good quality I think he stands in need of."

Wellington and Waterloo.
Helite, in speaking of Wellington's good luck at Waterloo, says: "This man has the bad fortune to meet with good fortune when the greatest man of the world is unfortunate. We see in him the victory of stupidity over genius."
—Arthur Wellington triumphant when Napoleon Bonaparte was overwhelmed. Wellington and Napoleon! It is a wonderful phenomenon that the human mind can at the same time think of both these names.

HE WAS A GROUCH.

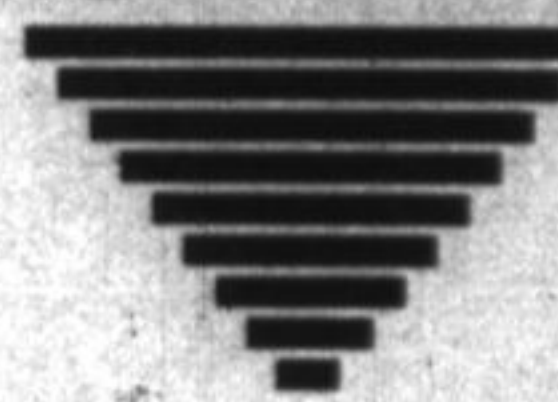

And He Furnished a Good Text For a Good Sermon.

"I had a little lesson several weeks ago," remarked the man with the gray mustache, "and it called me in good shape."
"Go ahead," said the stout man.
"I was in the garage where I keep my car and happened to overhear a conversation among the boys. A certain man had been injured while traveling abroad—very badly injured. It was reported—and one of the boys was telling the others about it. 'The story in the paper says he can't get well,' the youngster went on. 'Did you know him, Pete?' And the boy addressed promptly replied, 'Sure, I knew th' old grouch.'
"Say, that hit me pretty hard. Here was a leading citizen dying, and all the boy could remember about him was that he was a grouch. Yes, sir, it made me sit up and think hard. And I got in my mind that when I passed out I'd like to be remembered for something different."
He paused.
"That's worth considering," said the other man.
"Good text," said the first man.
"Good sermon," said the other.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Regular Old Sherlock.
"Poor girl!" said the general manager as the young woman who had just applied for a position as stenographer walked out of his office.
"What's her trouble?" asked his secretary.
"It's too bad that a girl who is so pretty—one who might be living in luxury—is compelled to go out looking for work because she refused to flatter her parents. You heard her say she was married, didn't you?"
"Yes, but I didn't hear her mention her parents."
"Evidently you have not developed much ability in the way of making deductions. Why would a girl with such eyes, such hair, such a complexion such teeth, such a beautiful face and such a figure as hers have to go out looking for work if she hadn't married against her parents' wishes?"

Population in United States.
The United States at present is in no danger of overpopulation. The Japanese empire has about 50,000,000 people, and the Japanese empire is of the same area as the single state of California. The German empire has 64,000,000, and the German empire is 95,000 square miles less than the state of Texas. The United States of America could furnish room and support for at least a billion human beings. It will be a long time before the danger line is reached in this nation and the population begin to encroach upon the means of subsistence. There is no cause for immediate worry.—Exchange.
