

Lawn Grass Seed

Don't you think it is cheaper to buy the grass seed you want from somebody who has paid the closest attention to soil and climatic conditions for years? Seed put up by a Chicago seed man may be good but the same mixture which is best suited for a light sandy soil as is found around Chicago is far from being the right one for our heavy clay soil at home. Did you ever ask what the mixture you buy consists of? Why not? If you are looking for results, the seed we sell produced the fine grass at the Exmoor Club, Moraine Hotel Grounds and Ravinia Park. No, we don't sell hardware nor groceries, you wouldn't want us too, but have been trying to improve our grass seed so as to get the best at a price just a little lower than the other fellow.

PLAITS UP TO DATE.

In Spring Tunes.

That a plaited skirt may be kept in extremely narrow lines is evidenced by this French frock of dove gray lardowne—a silk and worsted weave—which has an entirely new tunic over a side plaited skirt.

ROYAL AUTHORESS.

Infanta Eulalia of Spain Writes a Beauty Book.
The Infanta Eulalia, aunt of King Alfonso of Spain, has published another volume, entitled "For Women."

A former book by the princess, "The Thread of Life," was published in defiance of the king.

"Women ought to be beautiful," says this royal authoress, in her new book. Their beauty, said Ruskin, can never become too great for the good of humanity nor spread too far its light. Ugliness in a woman is a painful thing that exercises a most depressing influence on those about her. On the other hand, a beautiful face creates cheerfulness and stimulates human effort.

The woman upon whom the tired eyes of her husband after his day's work do not rest with pleasure is, failing in her proper role, which is to be a center of harmony, a mirror of beauty. The world pardons many faults to a beautiful woman because she adorns the world and on which she confers a "favor," as Emerson said, by the mere fact of her presence.

For Amateur Photographers.

People fond of taking amateur photographs or who have photographs which they wish to place in their rooms will find the ready made easel backs to attach to them a great convenience. These are 10, 15 or 25 cents a dozen, or they may be had in a set of three sizes to make up. Glue is provided with these sets and a tube of library paste as well, the whole for 50 cents. Another handy item is a little box of tags in three sizes, which are excellent for the baggage of the person who makes week end visits. Three dozen tags in a box, are priced at 25 cents.

Practical Gloves.

Practical, economical and smart looking gloves which will appeal particularly to the well dressed business woman are made on the heavily stitched mannish order and fasten with a single large button. They strongly resemble glove kid, but may be as readily washed in a hand basin with soap and water as chambray gloves and, like them, come in tan and white.

Anti-suffragist Colors.

Black, white and American Beauty roses are the colors the anti-suffragists have adopted as a contrast with the vivid yellow standards of their "votes for women" sisters. At a recent gathering one black haired woman showed the possibilities of the "anti" colors by wearing a gown of American beauty chiffon over white, with a black velvet picture hat.

The "Divine Sarah" Says—

Sarah Bernhardt is quoted as paying her respects to Isabella of Bavaria, consort of Charles VI. of France, in this wise: "It is to her that we owe the invention of the corset, but it was she, too, who sold the half of France to England. There was no crime of which that woman was not capable."

MOUNT SHASTA.

Snow Banners of the World's Most Impressive Mountain.

Travelers declare that Mount Shasta is the most impressive mountain in the world, for it stands solitary and alone. Unlike Pike's peak and many other of the world's great mountains, it is not surrounded by a number of lesser ones, and its tremendous height—14,140 feet—is appreciated by the eye.

It is sublimely grand and yet gracefully beautiful. Against the blue of a California sky its curved outlines seem to sweep in the perfect segments of a circle from the apex of the cone to the horizon.

Far up on its base the dark green of the timber line is met by the virgin whiteness of Shasta's snow, and then on, up and up, far past the summer clouds, points the alabaster pyramid.

Shasta is an extinct volcano and has two large glaciers. The Whitney glacier is visible from the railroad. It looks like a narrow streak of snow, but it is over a mile in width and is seamed with great fissures and crevasses.

At times a natural banner is unfurled from Shasta's peak. This is called the "snow banner of Shasta." It only occurs when the gale attacks the summit and blows the snow in great gusts "streaming against the sky," as the railroad book has it. The banner is seen most frequently in November.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

QUAINT WILLS.

A Parrot and a Russel Cob That Were Well Provided For.

The making of queer wills is a subject prolific of good stories, and some remarkable examples are given by Virgil M. Harris in "Ancient, Curious and Famous Wills." One Caroline Hunter, an elderly spinster, left $1,000 in trust for her parrot. The money was to provide it with a home and to guarantee it attention at the hands of a custodian, who had to be of the female sex and had to undertake not to leave England. The will included this clause:

"I will and desire that whoever tries to frustrate these my intentions shall forfeit whatever I have left him, her or them. I owe nothing to any one. Many owe me gratitude and money, but none have paid me either."

A rustic of Toulouse about 1781 wrote a brief will in these terms:

"I declare that I appoint my rascal cob my universal heir, and I desire that he may belong to my nephew, George."

This was contested, but was confirmed, as it was clear that the said George in owning the horse would have control of the money; also he would not be able to transfer or dissipate the cash for the simple reason that he would require the horse's consent, which would be difficult to obtain.
