AMERICAN ROAD CONGRESS AT DETROIT

During Week of Sept. 29 foremost Engineers and Contractors to be Represented

The American Road Congress will hold its third annual meeting at Detroit during the week of September 29. The Congress is the great annual assemblage of the good roads organizations throughout the United States and is held under the auspices of the American Highway Association, the American Automobile Association and the National Association of road machinery and material manufacturers, the latter organization being concerned primarily with the exposition of machinery and materials held in conjunction with the congress. The meeting will be thoroughly representative in character and the combined attendance of the various road organizations will be well over 5000 and will certainly set a new record far in advance of attendance figures at any previous good roads meeting in the United States.

The foremost engineers and contractors will join with distinguished laymen in making the program complete and effective. The sessions will be arranged as heretofore so as to specialize on construction, maintenance, legislation, administration, economics, etc.

The exposition will be held on the ground floor of the Wayne Gardens immediately under the large hall in which the sessions of the Congress will be held and, in order to meet the requirements of the companies which manufacture heavy road building machinery, a large vacant lot and an adjoining street will be transformed into exhibit space by the erection of a large tent in which heavy machinery may be exhibited and demonstrated. As heretofore the remarkable government exhibit of good road models will be a feature of the exposition together with the various state exhibits which will be shown in much larger number than at the congress held in Atlantic City in 1912.

The officers of the Congress are Logan Waller Page, Director of the United States Office of Public Roads, President; Lee McClung, Former Treasurer of the United States, Treasurer; J. E. Pennybacker, Sec'y. of the American Highway Association, Sec'y.; and Charles P. Light, Former State Highway Commissioner of West Virginia, Assistant to the President. The headquarters of the Congress are in the Colorado Building, Washington, D. C.

Cornelius R. Field of New York, formerly of Chicago and Highland Park died in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 29, 1913, of acute indigestion. Mr. Field and family came to Highland Park in 1868. He was a member and Director of the Highland Park Building Company. He was the chief clerk of the Internal Revenue office of the United States in Chicago and made a high reputation as an executive officer, organizing the business of the office, collecting large revenue from the distillers, brewers, and the income tax, this kind of taxation being entirely new in this country, being war measure. In consequence of the large acquaintance made in this office, and ability shown in the conduct of the business, he was chosen cashier of the First National Bank of Chicago. The Field family were among the first comers to Highland Park. When his house, which was the second house east of St. Johns on Laurel Ave., was ready they moved there and lived several years until Mr. Field built the house on Central Ave. now occupied and owned by Mr. H. B. Clark. Mr. Field was chosen mayor in 1890. He afterwards moved to New York, where, about two years ago, Mrs. Field died and now at the ripe age of seventy-seven years he has passed away, remembered with sincere love and affection by all who knew him.
