A LITERARY ROMANCE.

Pathetic Ending of the Love Story of the Post Laforgue.

In George Moore's "Impressions and Opinions" is told the touching love story of the post Laforgue, who was reader to the empress of Germany.

One winter day in Berlin Jules saw a girl skating as none ever skated before. The grace of the waist, the flowing hair and the feet lifted beneath the dark skirt filled him with happiness. The beautiful skater was an English girl.

He resigned his place as reader to the empress and married, and he and the beautiful English girl came to Paris in the hope that literature would yield them a living. But Laforgue's genius was of the kind that wins the sympathy of the elect, and instead of making his living with his pen Jules grew more and more consumptive.

I have heard that the young people lived in a poor apartment—two or three rooms—and that the beautiful English girl, now stricken with the dreadful malady, passed between the rooms with tissues. Friends climbed the high stairs to see them on Thursday evenings; a few admirers attended Jules' funeral and published the volume he left in his desk, "Les Moralites Legendaires"; the girl died soon after—two or three months.

How did she live during the brief interval? Where is she buried? Nobody knows. Yet I have a separate and complete sensation of these two little lives.
