THACKERAY'S KIND HEART.

The Author Was Called a Cynic, but He Loved Children.

Thackeray's words were satirical, and he himself was called a cynic, but the author of "Love Affairs of Some Famous Men" shows what sort of heart beat in the satirist's breast by quoting from the letter of one to whom the following incident happened:

"In the week following his death there appeared some genial memorial lines in the pages of Punch. Walking down the then unsavory thoroughfare known as Redfordbury, my eye caught the open page of the popular periodical, and I stayed to read the graceful tribute to the dead moralist. Turning away at length, a poorly dressed man in working garb said to me: 'I knew that man, sir.' 'You knew Thackeray?' I asked. 'Yes, sir, I keep that little baker's shop yonder,' pointing to the opposite side of the street, 'and many's the time Thackeray would come and buy a pound or two of cake of me. I cut it into slices for him, and then, distributing it among the crowd of hungry children, he would walk away and hide in that court over there, that he might have the pleasure of seeing their enjoyment. He didn't know I knew him, but I did. People used to call him a cynic, sir, but it wasn't true. He loved the children, sir, and no man is a cynic who does that.'"

THEY NEVER SEE SPOOKS.

That is One Consolation That Color Blind Persons Have.

Are you afraid of the dark? There isn't a chance of your seeing a ghost if you are color blind, which may furnish you a ray of comfort for the beauties of landscape and floral decorations you may have missed during your lifetime. Dr. August Lummer, head of the physical institute of the University of Breslau, in Germany, is authority for this.

Dr. Lummer explains the phenomenon in this way:

"The normal eye has an arrangement of tiny rods and cones in the retina. The rods perceive light and the cones color. When a person with a normal eye tries to see in a half dark place the cones, which are useless, interfere with the effective action of the rods, and consequently the confusion creates the effect of apparitions that come and go and change their shapes.

"The color blind person lacks the cones, and his rods act with extraordinary efficiency in the dark. The color blind person sees a clear, permanent outline of things as long as there is the least amount of light present. That means that he never sees ghosts."—New York Herald.

LEXINGTON MONUMENTS.

All along the road to Lexington from Cambridge, Mass., in the United States of America, there are monuments to "rebel colonists" who slew British soldiers April 19, 1775, but the most striking is that which is raised to the memory of Samuel Whittemore. He was eighty years of age at the time, and he killed three British soldiers with his own hand. The stone records that for this he received punishment of three floggings. He was shot, he was bayoneted and he was beaten. He was then, reasonably enough, left for dead. The old fellow must have had a magnificent constitution and a spirit which the most devoted optimist might envy. For the inscription goes on to say that he recovered and lived to the age of ninety-eight. "1095 must have been 'a good vintage'—for men."—London Chronicle.

A FAMOUS OLD HOAX.
Keely's Motor, With Which He Defied Scientists For Years.
The story of the Keely motor hoax will live long. Its preservation in the Franklin Institute of the model of the remarkable motor that Keely built to deceive intending investors and enrich his inventor until the fraud was exposed after Keely's death.
For twenty-five years Keely astounded eminent scientists of Europe and America with the machine that he claimed had solved the secret of perpetual motion. The inventor of this machine would start his device going, apparently, by playing a tune on a mouth organ. He convinced many clever men that he told the truth, and stock in the new concern sold freely.
To the day of his death Keely declared that his discovery was a genuine one, and it was only when the house in which the machine was placed was thoroughly overhauled that the colossal fraud was discovered. Keely had wired the walls of the building. He ran his machine by high pressure hydraulic power. When the wires attached to the machine were the subject of investigation Keely would file them to show that they were solid and could not be used for any purpose other than that for which they were attached.
Pieces of wire, thus filed are to be seen at the Franklin Institute. The broken pieces show that the wires were hollow and that the inventor of the wonderful motor carefully stopped his filing short of perforating the center, which would have exposed the fraud.—Scientific American.

Lawrence Took His Time.
The dispute about an unfinished Lawrence portrait recalls a story of that painter's dilatoriness. The Lord Melbourne of that time, after much letter writing about the portrait of his wife and child, said he could wait no longer. Lawrence pleaded for more time; he was well forward with the lady, but the baby one more sitting? "My wife will be happy to give you another sitting whenever you like," was the answer. "But the baby is now in the guards!"—Dandee Advertiser.
