There is a vicinity in Highland Park which of recent years has sprung into prominence by means of its improvements and new houses which, one after another, have been added, forming as impressive a row of homes, as is to be found in our city. This collection of homes is on Green Bay Road in the southern part of town and situated overlooking the Skokie or slough as old residents always called the swamp land. It is only in recent years that the majority of people have appreciated this high ridge on Green Bay Road, with perhaps the exception of Hugh T. Birch who foresaw the value of the property and for years clung to many acres of land in the region of Green Bay Road and Lincoln Ave., until he gets his price. The Ernest Wenhoer farm is the old home of the Birch family. The Fayette Munro's were the pioneers in this section and purchased their property from Mrs. Flint whose husband, General Flint had long before his death evidently been among the few who realized the value of the land. The Munro residence is unpretentious and a charming family home with a wide view over meadows to the distant woods of willow trees in the Skokie and beyond that the little farms. The improvement of the land nearer the view is as yet uncomplete. Further north on Green Bay Road is the estate of Curtis N. Kimball, a most successful achievement in landscape gardening with an imposing residence of brick and stone. There is the Lucian Williams place, "Bobolink Knolls," simple and English, with its close proximity of the meadows where the bobolinks are plentiful, thus giving the place a right to its name. The R. S. Kirchbergers have erected a residence of splendid taste on the old Catholic burying ground with its historic connections and adjoining this place is the C. C. Hughes home of pale gray stucco. The Highland Park Greenhouse Nursery adds not a little to the vicinity with its well kept gardens on the south east corner of Green Bay Road and Lincoln Ave.

Miss Florence Hatterman of Rogers Park will give a tea Saturday afternoon at her home for Miss Marjorie Mihills who is to be married the 25th of this month.

Mrs. Wm. Van Bergen Ames, who is staying at the Exmoor gave a luncheon for twelve guests on Monday at the Exmoor Club.

Mrs. Frank Gardner will entertain twenty little people at dinner Friday evening in honor of her small daughter Dorothy's birthday. The guests will later attend the moving pictures at the club.

To Bob Greenade, premier pitcher of the Deerfields, must be given the credit for Deerfield's defeat Sunday. He pitched invincible ball despite some bad errors indulged in by several of the Highland Park infielders. But one run and that in the ninth, should have been scored off of "Greeny." Torjeson, who led off for Deerfield, was plainly not in shape and he was hit hard in three innings he remained in the box. Kress had been slated to pitch the game but he missed a train and did not arrive on the scene until the seventh inning. By that time the game was hopelessly lost. The Deerfield team was hard up for pitchers when Tor was knocked out that Dussy Duffy was taken off of third and put in the box, thus weakening the infield. Sunday was a hoopoo all around for the locals and even the umpire took a sht at them with several bad decisions on third base.

At the adjourned meeting of the village board of trustees held Monday evening two members and the president were absent. Mr. C. W. Pettis was made chairman. The business of the evening consisted in accepting Mr. Edward Moore's bond for $300 and ordering the contract presented by him pertaining to the work on the west drain, signed. The meeting was adjourned until Friday.

The Young Men's will hold their club first informal dance of the season next Saturday evening at Anderson's hall.

A Sunset in Scotland.

It was a sunset of strange tints that evening, a background of clouds of deep violet tipped with crimson. The sky, of the very palest blue, had been turned by the brightness of the sun into a lake of silver, in which floated small fleecy clouds of brilliant rose-pink, like islets floating in a crystal sea. The rays of the sun behind the purple clouds threw long shafts of dazzling brilliancy, which tipped the dark background with silver as the sun kisses the peaks of a daisy. Every peak in the long range of mountains on the west was rose tipped, but the highest of them all towered clear and cone shaped to the distance, glistening in a shimmering mantle of silver and pale blue, as if the sky had wrapped it round its own brilliant cone. Do We Dodge Death?

Can we not always be trusted to do the right thing? The fear of death is general. Life is sacrificed every hour because the rules of health are not obeyed. Death is the one great monster of dread and from whom all flee. Yet how many safeguard their living in such a way as to avert its coming? The rules of health are violated because of the immunity we feel, but finally the penalty must be paid. No argument is needed to enforce the lesson. Everybody knows it. The rules of right living are clear, explicit. Vice, intemperance, wrong living, overeating as well as overdrinking, continue to pay their tribute to the undertaker and the graveyard.—Leslie's.

 "Is it?" he asked, still interested in the sporting page.—Chicago Record-Herald.

SHIP BURNS AT SEA

Scores of People Perish by Fire or Are Drowned.

LINER VOLT AND DESTROYED

Explosion on Board Causes the Death of Forty Persons and Two Boat Loads of Passengers Are Missing and Probably Lost—Only Wireless Details Received of the Disaster.

NEW YORK—The first definite news concerning the burning of the steamship Volturmo in midocean on Thursday, of the death by fire or drowning of 134 of her passengers and crew, and of the rescue on Friday morning by eleven steamships of 333 men, women and children, has been received.

The Rappahannock, one of the eleven ships that came up in time to assist in the perilous work of rescue, wireless to the Uranium Steamship line the first list of names of persons saved. She is on her way to Halifax with fifteen women and four children.

Those on the Rappahannock are: Felce Katske, Esther Katske, Maria Isenberg, Esther Leutetake, Bella Rechenky, Mrs. Pollock, Mrs. Gaduck-parasha, Nikoll Gaduckparsha, Mrs. Maria Vikitszvck, Pedro Vikitszvck, a son; Dimitro Vikitszvck, a son; Katrina Vikitszvck, a daughter; Leckadi Wolelock, Alexandria Kontionsha, Esther Popplia, Privia Vika, Perri Vika, Edna Friedman and Blay Laidin.

Nine steamers at rescue. Weather rough. One hundred and twelve people missing. Approximately seventy or eighty perished. Report later.

"FURNACE." The Furness, Withy and Company ship, reported that approximately seventy or eighty perished, but at the same time reported 112 to be missing. On the other hand, Captain Barr of the Garman places the number of rescued at 721, which would seem to mean that the loss of life is 120, including the two lifeboat loads of immigrants, who escaped being dashed against the Volturmo's side on Thursday morning, but who, it is believed now, were soon after swallowed up in the terrific gale that was raging.

The wireless dispatch received from the Groszer Kurfuert supplied with disappointing brevity some of the essential details. It told of a great explosion which killed forty of the crew and passengers, of the disappearance into the storm of two boat loads of passengers, with about 100 in them and of the number of survivors that had been taken on the various rescuing ships.

Panic was the first cause of the great loss of life, when the Volturmo burned. Members of the crew and men of the steerage passengers pushed aside women, with babies in their arms, and sprang into the first boats. These boats were crushed against the ship's side and all in them perished. Captain Inch terrorized stokers with his revolver and finally cut the life boats tackle to prevent more boats being lowered.

A dispatch from the Groszer Kurfuert, Cape Horn, says:

"Four Volturmo boats smashed. Forty persons were drowned. Two boats with 100 souls are missing. Forty men were killed by the explosion. The Volturmo has 42 crewmembers, the Narngensett 28, the New York 18, the Seydlitz 28, mostly women and children; the Devonian 60, the Kronland 50, including Captain Inch, who is wounded, the chief engineer, two engineers and the two wireless operators; the Kurfuert 106, including officers and engineers; the Carman 1, the Car 92, including the doctor and the purser; the Minneapolis 31, and the Rappahannock 18."

INJUNCTION AGAIN IN FORCE

Dissolution by Judge O'Brien in Copper District Is Suspended.

LANSING, MICH.—The big mine operators in the copper country won a signal victory in the supreme court when Allen Rees, representing the Calumet & Hecla Mining company, was granted an order requiring Judge O'Brien of the Houghton county circuit court to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be issued to make his injunction permanent against picketing and intimidation. In the meantime the supreme court suspends Judge O'Brien's order dissolving the temporary injunction against picketing which O'Brien issued Sept. 20, and the order dissolving O'Brien's action in suspending the injunction will remain in force until he shows cause why the writ of mandamus should not be issued.
