$14,000 EARNED BY CADDIES AT EXMOOR

To afford this opportunity and to make the surroundings of the caddies clean, moral and with only the best influence has been the work and aim of the caddie committees at Exmoor. It has been found that all the trouble has come from employing big boys over 14 or 15 years of age. These boys too often set a bad example by smoking, swearing and other misconduct. The result has been that the past season all these older boys have been turned away from Exmoor and today the largest number of boys are about 10 years of age. These youngsters are the best caddies both in efficiency and conduct and have made the largest earnings this year. The boys who won the "Star" badges this summer were of that age. It is but fair to say, however, that there are some notable exceptions among the older boys who have been retained for the reason that they are fine examples for the smaller boys and when these boys are ready to go into business they have secured good positions through the influence of the members.

Stewart Gardner, the professional, was a caddie in Scotland and understands boys. He has the confidence of every boy who knows him. He has worked to make the Exmoor a good place for good boys. By personal attention and instruction, with a system of marking the boys for their good work and conduct, he has brought the caddie service at the Exmoor up to a high degree of efficiency that is attracting the attention of golfers all over the country. Mr. Gardner and Mr. Hilden the caddie master take a personal interest in the boys. The members of the club co-operate in encouraging the little fellows and there are good efficient caddies at Exmoor eight or nine years of age. One boy, eight and one half years of age earned $90 this summer and was marked good for his work. Mr. Gardner invites parents to bring their children and come and see him just as they go with them when they start their children to school. The prize system at Exmoor the past season has been successful. Each boy was marked on a percentage basis as he is at school and at the end of the season a certificate is sent to his parents showing the average of his season's work and also the amount of his earnings during vacation.

The caddies at Exmoor are paid twenty cents an hour for their work. At the end of the game the player signs the caddie's ticket and the time on the ticket is figured out by the caddie master, who pays the boys the cash at once. The club pays the boy the full amount charged the member.

The following shows the personal record of 200 Exmoor caddies during July, August and September this year. Their percentage for field work and for good conduct are given, also amount of money earned by each boy during the 3 months.

The total amount earned by the boys during the school vacation was $8691.27. During the seven months, April to November inclusive, the amount earned by the boys was $13,340.07.

The Prize Winning Caddies During the summer many of the boys won prizes at Exmoor for their good work. In addition to these prizes there were prizes for games at various times, particularly on Friday, August 29th when the whole day was given up to sports. Many of the boys brought their mothers and little brothers and sisters and a fine time with plenty of good things to eat, was enjoyed.

EASTER ISLAND.

A Deserted Land and Its Mysterious Crude Stone Statues.

Huge and grotesque stone images stand and lie over the fertile surface of a deserted island far south in the Pacific. It is a place that few might have sung into existence or fabled legends created for the scene of some fantastic romance. Even its name—Easter Island—seems more literary than geographical. Easter Island, 2,000 miles from South America and 1,400 miles east of Pitcairn Island, has on all the forty-five square miles of its area less than 200 people. But it has other inhabitants, great masses of rock, 600 in number, each carved into the semblance of a human figure, the origin of which is a mystery. These statues weigh on an average from ten to twelve tons each, some of them reaching a weight of forty tons. A few of them stand on strong platforms 400 feet long, and many similar platforms stand untenanted.

At the quarry, which is a crater (for Easter Island is of volcanic origin), a number of these images lie half formed as the vanishing sculptors left them. There is another crater where the crowns of the figures were made from rock of a different sort. Here, too, are found unfinished specimens—Church men.

Much Harder.

"It is hard for one to have to live in the past," announced the melancholy man who had retired from business. "Yes, but often it is harder to live down the past."—Buffalo Express.

Jesters must be content to taste their broth.—Latin Proverb.

Alike. "My dear, having your father to live with us won't work." "But neither will father."—Baltimore American.

The happiness of life consists in something to do, something to love and something to hope for.—Dr. Chalmers.
